HENRY L. STIMSON DIES AT 83, WAS IN CABINETS OF FOUR PRESIDENTS

Suffers Heart Attack — Ranked as One of Two Greatest Secretaries of War in American History.

COLD SPRING HARBOR, N. Y., Oct. 21 (AP)—Henry L. Stimson, the first American to hold Cabinet offices under four Presidents, died yesterday of a heart attack. He was 83 years old.

Stimson was Secretary of War under Presidents William Howard Taft, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry Truman, and was Herbert Hoover's only Secretary of State.

Three months ago Stimson fell and broke his hip, but was making a good recovery and getting about with wheelchair and crutches. Yesterday afternoon he and Mrs. Stimson set out on a drive around the estate. He was stricken in the car and was taken home immediately. He died shortly after he was taken into the house—about 4 o'clock.

Stimson is survived by his wife, the former Mabel Wellington White, whom he called "the greatest happiness in my life." They were married in 1893 and had no children.

Burial on Long Island.

Funeral plans were not arranged at once but a relative said Stimson will be buried here on Long Island.

Tall, austere and described as "a New England conscience on legs," Stimson was a Wall Street lawyer whose private practice was repeatedly interrupted by public duty.

Stimson was the first leading statesman in any western country to demand a tough crackdown on the aggressors of the 1930s. His policy failed at the time, but as America's Secretary of War from Pearl Harbor to Hiroshima, he directed the Army and Air Force that helped redeem it.

While Stimson's four years as Secretary of State, 1929 to 1933, were distinguished, military men and historians have ranked him with Lincoln's Edwin M. Stanton as one of the two greatest secretaries of war in American history.

Called in by Taft in 1911.

He was first called to the office in 1911 by President Taft.

He left the post in 1913 and did not take it up again until 1940 —27 years later—when Franklin D. Roosevelt called him back to duty on the eve of World War II at the age of 73.

When he left the office for the last time in September 1945, he had directed the mobilization and use of an 8,000,000-man army.

President Truman said Stimson's career in public service was "one of the greatest and most inspiring in our history." Truman also sent a eulogistic letter to Mrs. Stimson.

Vice President Barkley said Stimson "added dignity and character to American life," while Secretary of State Acheson said the nation would find his memory "an ever-present help in time of trouble." Gen. Marshall, Secretary of Defense, praised him as "a great American and a model citizen."

Hoover said the nation had lost the man who "established the unquestioned integrity and high administrative level to one of the two greatest armies the world ever assembled." He added "We have no parallel in American life of the career of Secretary Stimson."

BRITISH ATOMIC EXPERT REPORTED ON WAY TO RUSSIA

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 21 (AP) — Italian-born British atom scientist Bruno Pontecorvo, who is said to be en route to Moscow, passed through Stockholm Sept. 1, a competent source here said today.

Pontecorvo arrived by plane from Rome with his Swedish-born wife and his three children. The next day they proceeded to Helsinki in a Finnish plane, the source said.

Pontecorvo, 40 years old, became a British subject after World War II, when he worked on atomic research in Canada and Britain. While in Britain he worked on the Harwell atomic energy research project where Klaus Fuchs, German-born atomic scientist also worked. Fuchs was convicted of giving atomic secrets to the Russians and sentenced to prison.

In London both Scotland Yard and the British Foreign Office disclaimed any interest in Pontecorvo's whereabouts.

CHARGES POSTCARD FIRM SENT GOT HIM IN JAM WITH WIFE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 21 (AP)—Barber Bert Stone told district court a postcard he received a year ago contained only a short message—but big enough to get him in a jam with his wife. He filed suit for $10,000 damages yesterday against Hall's Clothing, Inc., and Evelyn Williams, one of its credit department employes.

The card said: "Dear Bert: Call me today. Ph. 2-7648. Evelyn."

Carmon C. Harris, Stone's attorney, said Stone wasn't at home when the postman delivered the card—but Mrs. Stone was.

"When Stone returned home, he found his wife pretty upset," Harris told a reporter.

Harris said Stone later learned it came from a clothing store and gave his wife that explanation.

"She looked up the clothing store telephone number and it wasn't the same," Harris continued. "That didn't help much."

He said the number on the card is an unlisted number at the store's credit department. The lawyer said Evelyn answers the phone.

Evelyn was described as the happily married mother of a daughter.

Stone charged that the postal card implied he "was carrying on a clandestine love affair with a woman named Evelyn." He said the card embarrassed him and reflected on his marital fidelity.

A NOT NUT IS A NUT, A NUT IS A NOT NUT; WHO IS NOT NUTS?

ROGATE, England, Oct. 21 (AP)—The English language tangled with administrative gobbledegook and got into politics today.

In Britain, unground groundnuts are peanuts and ground groundnuts are peanut butter. This is a simple fact. But not to the Government.

C. F. H. Gough, a Conservative, quoted the following extract from a Government order in a political speech las. night:

"In the nuts (unground) (other than groundnuts) order, the expression 'nuts' shall have reference to such nuts, other than groundnuts, as would, but for this amending order, not qualify as nuts (unground) (other than groundnuts) by reason of their not being nuts (unground)."

All clear?

ARMY FINANCE ACCOUNTING UNIT TO BE REMOVED FROM ST. LOUIS

430 Employes Will Be Offered Positions in Other Cities or Be Absorbed in Main Organization Here.

The accounting division of the Army Finance Center, 4300 Goodfellow boulevard, is to be moved from St. Louis under a decentralization program, and its work transferred to new units in each of the six Army area headquarters in this country and in the Military District of Washington, D. C., it was announced today.

The accounting division presently employs about 430 persons here. These workers will be offered positions in the new offices, and those who do not volunteer for transfer will be absorbed in other departments of the Finance Center, which has about 4500 employes, it was said.

The announcement, made by Army headquarters in Washington, stated the accounting division will be decentralized "so that breakdowns of statistical information on expenditures by Army areas may be readily obtained."

There was no indication the decision had any connection with the fact that the Finance Center here has been the subject of at least six different investigations in recent years.

The Army's announcement said accounting division units already have been established in Third Army headquarters at Atlanta, Ga., and at Fourth Army headquarters at Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

It said similar units will be set up at Governor's Island, N. Y., headquarters of the First Army Area, in January; at Fort Holabird, Md., Second Army Area, in December; at Chicago, Fifth Army Area, in November, and at San Francisco, Sixth Army Area, and in the Military District at Washington, during January.

A nucleus of personnel from the St. Louis office, who have volunteered for transfer, will staff the new offices, the Army said.

The accounting division unit for the Military District of Washington will be at Alexandria, Va. In addition to serving the Washington district, it will co-ordinate information gathered by units in the six Army areas.

The accounting division is the second unit to be moved from the Goodfellow boulevard installation. Earlier this year the organizational records branch of the Records Administration at the center was moved to Kansas City. That shift affected 389 employes.

Investigations of the Finance Center have been conducted by the United States Civil Service Commission, the Army Inspector General, the General Accounting Office, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and several House Committees.

The Army and congressional investigations revealed that the St. Louis office had paid out more than $157,000,000 in erroneous payments and overpayments of servicemen's allotments. The Army said at the time the overpayments resulted from wartime and demobilization pressure, and that a substantial sum was recovered.

A House Civil Service Subcommittee complained last spring not only of the overpayments and poor administration, but the employment of alleged Communists and Communist sympathizers. At least 40 employes of the Finance Center were fired or resigned as a result of inquiries into security risks.

SNAKES ENLIVEN TV SHOW

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21 (AP)—The television announcer was discussing whether animals, fish and reptiles, if they all lived to maturity, would some day push man off the earth.

Picking up the cue, 50 baby water snakes on the "Science in Action" TV show squirmed out of their display tray and went crawling about the floor. The cameras were hastily switched to a commercial. The last snake was recovered three hours after the program went off the air.

GROUND FORCES JOIN AIRBORNE UNITS TO NORTH OF PYONGYANG

South Koreans Driving for China Border, Are Within 80 Miles of It—Little Likelihood of Major Enemy Stand.

SEOUL, Oct. 21 (AP)—Allied troops set up roadblocks today on all the main routes leading north to Manchuria from the fallen Red Korean capital of Pyongyang. The war was in the mop-up phase.

South Korean Sixth Division troops and the United States First Cavalry Division linked up with American paratroopers who jumped Friday in the Sunchon-Sukchon area 30 miles north of Pyongyang.

Sunchon fell Friday night. There was fighting in the Sukchon area. The situation in the city was not clear.

28,000 Reds Sealed Off.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said the parachute troops had sealed off 28,000 Reds. This was nearly half of the estimated 63,000 enemy troops still at large in Red-held territory.

With the capture of Pyongyang —first Communist capital to fall to United Nations forces — the signal was given to South Koreans to drive for the Manchuria border. Five South Korean divisions were 80 to 85 miles from the politically touchy borders of Red China and nearby Russian territory. Their drive was gaining momentum every hour.

Two divisions, the Third and Capital, were rolling north near the east coast.

A United Nations First Corps spokesman said the Capital infantrymen sliced 30 miles northeast of captured Hamhung Saturday. They were 85 miles from Manchuria and almost as close to Siberia.

South Koreans Converge.

In the west, three other South Korean divisions were converging on the Sunchon-Sukchon area where American parachute troopers jumped Friday to cut off Red Korean remnants north of Pyongyang.

The South Korean Sixth Division already had linked up with the paratroopers 80 miles south of the Manchuria border. Its position was athwart the two main escape routes to Manchuria.

The Fifth Air Force said aerial observers had spotted many enemy troops walking south on the Sunchon highway with their hands above their heads. The Reds apparently had thrown down their arms.

A Korean Communist broadcast from Sinuiju, on the Manchuria border only a few miles from the Yellow Sea, said the Reds had set up a refugee capital there.

No Mass Stand Expected.

An intelligence officer said the estimated 63,000 Communist fighting men left in North Korea will not be able to mass for any big future stand against Allied troops racing to bring the four-month-old war to an end.

Headquarters said the Reds may be able to move some of the trapped 28,000 men over hill roads but that their heavy equipment was lost.

What little opposition the North Koreans tried to put against the paratroops was speedily overcome.

A spokesman for Gen. MacArthur said there is still no evidence of an organized defense line north of the present battle zones. Likewise, reports of prearranged assembly points for shattered North Korean units are becoming rare.

Resistance in Pyongyang, the captured Red capital, is flickering out, the intelligence officer said. American tanks have crossed the Taedong and are in the city. Small pockets of Reds and snip-

Korean Situation At a Glance

NORTH KOREA — Parachute troops dropped in Sunchon-Sukchon area linked forces with United Nations ground troops and seal off 28,000 Communist Koreans. Surprise maneuver leaves 63,000 Red troops unable to mass for stand. Resistance subsides in Pyongyang. South Korean troops push toward Manchurian border.

RUSSIAN EFFORTS TO GIVE RED CHINA PLACE AT PARLEY DEFEATED TWICE

Assembly Group's Resolution Calls on Powers to Take Up All Issues Likely to Menace Peace of World.

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Oct. 21 (AP)—The Political Committee of the United Nations General Assembly today unanimously approved a resolution calling for big power peace consultations after rebuffing two attempts by Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky to gain recognition for the Chinese Communist government. It was a rare show of unanimity in the U.N.

The Soviet Foreign Minister fought hard to have the 60-nation committee list specifically the name of the Chinese People's Republic among the great powers, but the committee twice voted his motion was not acceptable at this time. This leaves the Nationalist Chinese still in their U.N. seat.

To Discuss Peace Threats.

The resolution recommends that the permanent members of the Security Council — France, Britain, China, United States and the Soviet Union—meet and discuss all problems likely to threaten international peace.

Vishinsky urged against an "ostrich" policy in a speech before the committee but on the final count he voted yes.

The committee actually did not express itself on the question of recognizing the Chinese Communists. It only decided that Vishinsky could not wedge the issue into the resolution by Iraq and Syria calling for the Big Five to consult on their disagreements.

The first vote was 26 against, 13 in favor and 16 abstaining. The second vote was 35 against, 12 in favor and 11 abstaining.

"Let's not be like ostriches, who seeing approaching danger, hide their heads under their wings," Vishinsky said in submitting his amendment, which called for specific listing of Red China among the big powers.

"It Cannot Change Things."

"There are some considerable doubts about the meaning of the word, 'China'," Vishinsky said. "To elude this question is improper. Even if the United States fails to recognize the Chinese People's Republic, it cannot change things. I am just speaking from the perspective of historical truth. Whether the United States recognizes the Chinese People's Republic or not, it is there.

"We know. For 16 years, we were not recognized by a certain government." He was referring to the fact that the United States did not recognize Soviet Russia until 1933.

T. F. Tsiang, Nationalist China's chief delegate, replied that the Communist government is a Russian satellite and does not represent China. He called on the committee to reject the Russian demand.

Although American delegates went along with the resolution calling for Big Five talks, Secretary of State Dean Acheson said in Washington yesterday that he saw now great hope for the success of such talks unless Russia suddenly changes its attitude.

Conference Unlikely.

Most observers believed it was unlikely that even with the resolution there was much chance the leaders of the big powers would actually sit down together around a conference table.

In its final form, the resolution is little more than a statement of principles. Its original wording, charging the Big Five powers with responsibility for peace, was changed to a mere expression of the fact that all members of the U.N. have a responsibility for peace and that it is the primary obligation of all members of the Security Council—not just the Big Five.

But it points to the "importance of unanimity among the permanent members of the Security Council on all problems which are likely to threaten world peace" and recommends to the Big Five that:

1. "They meet and discuss, collectively or otherwise, and, if necessary, with other states concerned, all problems which are likely to threaten international peace and hamper the activities of the U.N. with a view to resolving the fundamental differences and reaching agreement in accordance with the spirit and letter of the Charter."

2. "They advise the General Assembly and, when it is not in session, the members of the U.N., as soon as appropriate, of the results of their consultations."

John Foster Dulles, United States delegate, said yesterday that "wherever there seems to be any reasonable opportunity of making a settlement which will

FRENCH GIVE UP PIVOTAL LANGSON POST IN INDOCHINA

Reds' Control of Frontier Fortress Opens Door to Communist China Supplies.

SAIGON, Indochina, Oct. 21 (AP)—French troops today evacuated their frontier headquarters fortress of Langson, which guarded the main invasion gateway into Indochina from Communist China.

The pivotal French post for the defense of north Indochina yielded to Communist-led Nationalist troops after a French occupation of 78 years.

Control of Langson swings wide the frontier door for Ho Chi-minh's Soviet-backed guerrillas to supplies and training bases in Red China.

The French army communique said the evacuation was effected to permit the regrouping of French forces into new strategic mobile reserves. It said the French would take the offensive as soon as the reorganization and disposition is accomplished.

Air Force Covers Retreat.

The communique said the withdrawing French troops were fighting "some engagements of minor importance." The French Air Force was up in strength over the frontier to cover the French retreat.

Langson was the sixth post the French have given up within a month along the mountainous frontier, stronghold of Moscow-trained Ho's Nationalist guerrillas. All that remain are Laokay and Moncay on the western and eastern ends of the former French border defense line.

Military experts already have admitted that the frontier garrisons no longer are effective in their main function, that of stopping traffic between the Vietminh and the Chinese Communists who the French charge have been training the guerrillas on a large scale recently.

French Dig In.

Meanwhile the French have dug in with heavy armor along the Red river delta while reinforcement were mobilized to bolster new positions for a stand against the Vietminh forces.

Today's communique indicated an attempt may be made to hold the garrisons east of Langson. This 100-mile wide zone anchored at Moncay on the gulf of Tonkin, will be easier to hold because of good road and sea communications to strong French troop concentrations on the Red River delta.

Meanwhile, Emperor Bao Dai of the French-backed Viet Nam government, returned from a holiday on the Riviera. He arrived by plane at his capital of Dalat, 350 miles northeast of Saigon.

Gen. Alphonse Juin, one of France's top generals, and Jean Letourneau, French minister of Associated States, recently flew to Indochina from Paris to discuss the emergency.

RED KOREANS MOVE CAPITAL TO SINUIJU ON MANCHURIA LINE

TOKYO, Oct. 21 (AP)—A Korean Communist broadcast from Sinuiju—on the Manchurian border—said today the Reds had established a refugee capital there.

The former Red capital, Pyongyang, some 100 miles to the southeast, has fallen to United Nations forces.

The broadcast, heard here, said a "standing committee" of the Russian - sponsored government has decided to make Sinuiju the Red capital. It added that from now on it would be the "official" voice of Communist Korea.

Sinuiju lies 103 miles northwest of Pyongyang directly across the Yalu river frontier from Antung, Manchuria.

M'ARTHUR PUTS COST OF INTERIM AID IN KOREA AT $146,500,000

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur has put the cost of Korean civilian relief at $146,500,000 for the rest of the fiscal year ending next June 30.

His estimate was received yesterday by the Defense Department, which has taken over from the Economic Co-operation Administration the relief job in South Korea.

Gen. MacArthur said 610,000 tons of food, 220,000 tons of industrial material and equipment, and 16,000 tons of medical suplies will be needed.

ECA, the Marshall plan agency, had authorized $21,767,688 for Korean relief and rehabilitation as of Sept. 15. Other United Nations members have offered supplies to aid the South Koreans.

CALLS U.S. CHEESE SALE $7,500,000 SUBSIDY TO BRITAIN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Representative Hugh D. Scott Jr. (Rep.), Pennsylvania, said last night that the Government's sale of 50,000,000 pounds of cheese was "a $7,500,000 subsidy" to British housewives.

His statement followed Department of Agriculture announcement of the sale—amounting to half its surplus stock—to Britain.

The department did not disclose the sale price. Scott said he was reliably informed it was 16 cents a pound. The cost to the Government, under price support programs, was 31 cents, he said, and the same type cheese is selling in chain stores now at 42½ cents.

PACIFIC AIR LIFT TO GO ON AFTER KOREAN WAR ENDS

Gen. Kuter Says There Will Be Extensive, Further Deployment of Troops and Materiel.

HONOLULU, Oct. 21 (AP) — The huge air lift ferrying troops and materiel over the Pacific ocean at the rate of a plane every 75 minutes, "will continue indefinitely after the end of the shooting war in Korea."

Maj. Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, Military Air Transport Service commander, made that clear yesterday on a stopover here en route home from a global tour of MATS bases.

"At the end of the shooting in Korea, there will be extensive and further deployment of troops and materiel," he said.

The General did not elaborate on this deployment in a talk with reporters in which he dealt entirely with operations in the Pacific.

In Washington, a Defense Department source mentioned Japan and Alaska among possible Pacific areas for deployment. The source said he was convinced Gen. Kuter was not talking about moving United States forces to Indochina, where Communist activities have forced French withdrawals from a region bordering on Red China.

Gen. Kuter said, "It is impossible to forecast when the (Pacific) air lift will end."

It began shortly after the North Korean Reds invaded South Korea June 25. It has been built up to a plane-mile volume exceeding that for Berlin's famed Operation Vittles."

The September average of 252,000 plane-miles a day for the Pacific air lift in September exceeded by 10,000 the Berlin air lift's average daily haul.

MATS and chartered commercial planes carried about 8000 tons of cargo and 34,000 passengers to Japan and Korea during the first three months of the Korean war.

Gen. Kuter said MATS planes would replace chartered commercial planes in the air lift as fast as Air Force reservists could be assigned to the operation.

He predicted the last commercial flight in the air lift would come next February.

37,000,000 Pieces of Paper Used To Close 10,000 U.S. Contracts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—The reported use of 37,000,000 pieces of paper to close 10,000 contracts is cited by a House committee as a case of government waste.

The government operations subcommittee of the expenditures committee said yesterday this average of 3700 pieces of paper for each contract was used by a certain military installation, identity not disclosed.

The committee said it also received information that an average of 40 copies of each contract are now prepared and distributed to various government units and that 900 copies of each bid invitation are circulated by the installation.

Representative Burnside (Dem.), West Virginia, a member of the subcommittee, told reporters the amount of paper work was not altogether the fault of the installation. Some is due to safeguards designed to protect the public, some is required by law, and some results from requests from private industry, he said.

G.I. Sends $30 for Bike for Girl Whose Dad Fibbed to Get Her One

MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., Oct. 21 (UP)—This is a report to Sgt. John A. Waibel of the Eighty-ninth Medium Tank Battalion, fighting somewhere in Korea—if he is still alive. Sergeant, 5-year-old Edna Aman thinks the bicycle you sent her is just wonderful.

Edna has been wanting a bicycle for a long time now, but her father couldn't really afford one.

A month ago, however, he took his last $4.33 and bought her, as a birthday surprise, a broken-down one. It wasn't much, but it made Edna happy.

Then Aman became afraid that his wife would be angry because he had spent the $4.33. So he reported to police that he had been robbed of the money. Later, however, Aman's pitiful little hoax was exposed.

When the newspapers carried the story, somehow, a clipping of it reached Sgt. Waibel in Korea.

This week, Mayor Don Taylor received a letter from Waibel inclosing the clipping and a money order for $30. The letter said: "Dear Sir: Please do me a favor and take this money and see that this girl gets a bicycle. If by any chance she has already received a bicycle, take the money and fix her up with clothes."

It wasn't long after that before a store reduced the priced of a $65 bicycle to $30. And so, sergeant, Edna got her bicycle.

When he presented it to Edna, Mayor Taylor said he didn't know you, your home town, or anything about you.

He doesn't think you're a Marshalltown resident, but he said that from now on you're an honorary citizen of this town. And the people here would be right proud to have you settle down here when you get through with that job you're doing now.

In the meantime, if there's anything you need or want, you just let the Mayor know about it.

U.S. THINKS PEACE PARLEY WOULD YIELD LITTLE NOW, ACHESON ASSERTS

He Says Russian Attitude Is So Disobliging That It Discourages Hope of Reaching Any Agreement.

By WALLACE R. DEUEL
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—The United States is ready and willing to take part in peace talks with Russia and other powers at any time, but does not think that such talks with the Soviets are likely to produce valuable results under present circumstances, Secretary of State Dean Acheson said at a news conference late yesterday.

This country is already taking part in negotiations with the Soviets designed to achieve peaceful solutions of a variety of problems, Acheson pointed out. The Russian attitude in these negotiations is so disobliging, however, that it does not encourage high hopes that discussions of other subjects would lead to agreements.

Thus the western Allies have been trying for many months to work out an Austrian peace settlement with the Soviets, the Secretary declared, but Russian negotiators won't even discuss the Austrian problem. Their latest evasive tactic is to insist on dealing with Trieste before they will even talk about Austria any further.

Cites Red Position in Austria.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky complains that the United States won't go half way to meet Moscow's views, Acheson noted. However, the Secretary declared this country has gone seven-eighths of the way on the Austrian question, but the Russians won't even discuss the issue

Two changes will have to take place before there can be much chance that useful agreements will result from peace talks with the Soviets, Acheson said. First, the Russians will have to change their attitude. Second, the Kremlin will have to recognize that the Soviet Union and the western powers are speaking from equal positions.

Asked what he meant by "equal positions," the Secretary replied that he meant we must reduce to some extent the present wide disparity in armed forces between east and west.

Dulles's Comment.

Acheson expressed these views on the question whether he agreed with comment made yesterday at the United Nations by John Foster Dulles, Republican foreign policy adviser in the State Department and member of the American delegation to the U.N. General Assembly. Dulles indicated that the United States was prepared to consider the possibility of taking part in big power peace talks.

The Secretary said he agreed completely with Dulles. He added he had said essentially the same things in his own opening address at the General Assembly.

The Secretary brushed aside a Soviet protest against the recent American-British-French decision to authorize the west German republic to raise a special force of 30,000 federal security police, in addition to present state and local law enforcement units, for dealing with large-scale civil disorders. Acheson said he had not yet received the Russian protest but that, judging by press accounts of it, it was altogether unjustified.

On the other hand, the Secretary went on, the federal police force which the western Allies have authorized the Bonn Government to organize will really be only a law enforcement unit. The difference between riot squads and an armed force with armor and air power is perfectly clear, Acheson said, clearly implying that he considers Moscow is deliberately misrepresenting the facts.

Denounces Reich Elections.

Acheson denounced the "elections" held in the Soviet zone of Germany last Sunday, in which voters were offered only one list of candidates, all approved by the Communist party, and were obliged to cast their ballots publicly. This was an "election fraud," the Secretary asserted, and the United States sympathizes with the east Germans for the "humiliating and contemptuous manner in which the Russians treated them."

Tank-Led Yank Force Racing to Rescue 150 Americans Believed Held in Tunnel

Prisoners Reported to Be on Stalled Train—Red Colonel Quoted as Saying Gen. Dean Died.

By ROBERT BENNYHOFF

PYONGYANG, North Korea, Oct. 21 (UP)—A tank-led United States task force raced north from Pyongyang today in an attempt to rescue 150 American war prisoners believed to be held by the Communists in a railroad tunnel 40 miles from the city.

The prisoners may be from a group of 250 or more Americans whom the North Koreans marched out of Pyongyang toward the Manchurian border last Saturday.

At least 20 American war prisoners who escaped from the Communists said the 250 prisoners were all who were left out of 376 who began a "death march" from Seoul. Eighty-one others died on the way to Pyongyang from beatings, shootings, malnutrition, dysentery and exposure, they said.

Report of Dean's Death.

One of the prisoners said a North Korean colonel had told him that Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, missing commander of the United States Twenty-fourth Division, died in Communist captivity while being marched from Taejon to Seoul.

The prisoner, Second Lt. Douglas W. Blalock, of Savannah, Ga., said he had met an American lieutenant in a prison camp who told him that he, Dean and several other Americans had hidden in the mountains near Taejon for 15 days after that city fell last July.

The lieutenant said the party separated, however, and he never saw Dean again, Blalock reported.

Later, a North Korean colonel told Blalock that Dean had been captured and had died shortly before reaching Seoul. He said the colonel refused to give any details.

Asked if he believed Dean actually were dead, Blalock said:

"I have no opinion. I've found that these North Koreans can lie to you just as well as they can tell the truth."

Escape From Prison Train.

Blalock was one of five Americans who escaped from a prison train north of Pyongyang Friday and hid in a cornfield until he heard an American tank column from the First Cavalry Division rumbling up a nearby highway this morning.

It was the First Cavalry Division which sent an armored task force racing north today on a tip that 150 prisoners were aboard a Communist train stalled in a tunnel 40 miles north of Pyongyang.

Fellow prisoners who escaped from the train said the North Koreans told them they would be taken to Manjopin on the Manchurian border nearly 150 miles north of Pyongyang.

They said the train had only covered about 40 miles because of conditions along the railway.

During the five days they spent on the train, the prisoners said they had been given rice only twice. Their only nourishment the rest of the time was a hard-tack type of cracker given them by guards.

Escaped prisoners were being flown from Pyongyang to Kimpo airfield outside Seoul as fast as they could be brought to the airfield here.

First to go were Pvt. Harold A. Warren, Brint, Ala.; Pvt. Russel Morris, Charlottesville, Va.; Pvt. Raymond Hamilton, Branson, Mich.; Pfc. Joseph Cerino Jr., Bangor, Pa.; Capt. William D. Locke, Enfield, N. C.; First Lt. Alexander G. Nakarounis, Lowell, Mass.; First Lt. James B. Smith, Columbus, O.; Sgt. 1st Class Robert L. Morris, Chester, Pa.; Sgt. First Class William H. Jones, Flint, Mich.; Pvt. First Class Edward G. Halcomb, Hamilton, O.; and Sgt. Pakeshi Kumagai and Cpl. Jack C. Arakawa, both of Honolulu.

Halcomb's Story.

Halcomb told this story:

"A week ago today the original group of American prisoners housed in a red brick school in the northeast section of Pyongyang were lined up in columns of four after darkness and were told they were being taken to the Manchurian border.

"There were five of us—Morris, Jones, Arakawa, Smith and myself—who had been trying to escape for some time and we decided we might not get another chance.

"When the North Koreans started to march us up a dark alley, we five dropped out of line and squeezed up against the wall in the shadows.

"The column went by with most of the guards at the rear, and they never saw us.

"Later, Arakawa, who looks like a Korean, pretended he was our guard and marched us through the city hollering 'Bali, Bali,' meaning hurry. The gooks did not pay any attention to us. We had trouble, though, when we passed a North Korean police box.

Lived on Flour and Water.

"We ran down a side street into an alley when the police fired two shots at us. We found a vacant house, broke open the door and stayed inside the next several days. We found a 15-pound sack of flour mixed with seeds, and some water and lived on that.

"On the fifth day we heard a lot of people shouting 'Banzai.' We looked through door cracks and saw South Korean flags flying. A young Korean told us the city had fallen.

The Americans said the march from Seoul to Pyongyang took 20 days.

"If one prisoner fell down, another would pick him up and carry him," Morris said. "If both fell, the guards beat or shot them. Eighty-one died either from shootings or beating or exposure during the march."

Studebaker Introduces a V-8.

Arrows indicate mopping-up drives by United Nations forces. American First Division cavalrymen moved north from Pyongyang to link up with paratroops dropped in the Sukchon-Sunchon area. An earlier link-up was made by South Korean forces advancing westward. Other forces fanned out in the east and west. A Red broadcast said Sinuiju (underlined) had been made a North Korean refugee capital.

ers pecked away at United Nations troops.

The intelligence officer said the two North Korean army corps headquarters organizations have been written off. He said the commanding generals are believed to have escaped. Local guerrilla bands apparently were operating on their own.

Triumph Believed Near.

Gen. MacArthur, who supervised the big parachute drop Friday, said he is confident the end of the fighting and triumph for United Nations forces is near at hand.

More and more the Communists appeared to be losing their zest for battle. They surrendered in droves and small groups. More than 82,000 war prisoners are held by the Allies.

United States First Cavalrymen and the parachute troops linked forces over the 30-mile stretch between Pyongyang and Sunchon to the north. But the South Korean Sixth Division already had joined the paratroopers a few hours after the Americans landed.

Some Guerrilla Action.

All reports, except from the Chinnampo area, west of Pyongyang, indicated there was very little fight left in the North Koreans. A few scattered bands of guerrillas struck and skulked to the hills in isolated cases.

The United States Twenty-fourth Infantry Division was expected to take Chinnampo, which is the port for Pyongyang. The bag of prisoners there increased hourly.

One guerrilla force of 1000 Reds seized briefly a hydro-electric plant at Hwachon, 55 miles northeast of Seoul. The plant was not damaged by the Communists who fled north from Hwachon.

Air blows north of parallel 38 continued on a 24-hour schedule. Targets were becoming scarce however, as the Reds broke up into small segments and hid in the rough country.

UNDERGROUND ARMY LEADER IN UKRAINE REPORTED KILLED

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 21 (UP)—Ukrainian sources today reported that Lt. Gen. Taras Tschuprynka, commander of the Ukrainian underground army resisting the Communists, has been killed by Russian troops.

The Ukrainian monthly newspaper Do Zbrei, which is published in Germany, said the news came from Ukrainian Liberation Council and the Ukrainian resistance army which is reported still fighting against the Russians for Ukrainian independence.

According to this report, Tschuprynka's headquarters in the village of Bilohorstscha, near the Polish border, were overrun by Russian troops, and Tschuprynka was killed in the fighting.

JAP MINESWEEPERS QUIT U.N. JOB AFTER ONE IS BLOWN UP

WONSAN, North Korea, Oct. 21 (AP)—A fleet of Japanese minesweepers under charter to the United Nations has refused to continue sweeping the vast mine concentration off Wonsan, a United States naval spokesman announced yesterday.

The Japanese refused to continue work after a magnetic mine blew one of their vessels to pieces, killing 17 or 18 men. Three Allied minesweepers also have been lost in sweeping 32 square miles of the Sea of Japan off this east coast port. Two of these were American and the third was South Korean.

The Navy spokesman said about 20 Japanese minesweepers were hired for the operation because U.N. naval forces did not have sufficient vessels for the job.

The mines have been officially identified by the Defense Department in Washington as of Russian make.

War Interlude: Marching Men Forget Goal to Aid Fallen Flyer

By TOM LAMBERT

PYONGYANG, Korea, Oct. 21 (AP)—The United States advance on Pyongyang once came to a halt for 15 minutes—to help a lone American in distress.

Tanks, guns and troops had been rolling up the road toward the North Korean capital through an autumn countryside vivid with color. Now and then the tanks fired. Machine guns chattered at targets nearer the road.

Ahead United States warplanes bored through the air. Towers of smoke rose from towns and villages where their bombs and jellied gasoline fell. Dotted trails of smoke puffed from their strafing guns. And then the stutter of the 50-caliber cartridges came down the wind.

The riflemen in the advancing column paid little attention to the warplanes. Then four F-51s came thundering over the column from a swift run on a nearby target. The men in the column saw one plane waver and jerk up. The plexiglass canopy fell off and flashed end over end in the sunlight.

The fighter plane tipped up on its left wing. It faltered and began its straight and seemingly certain dive to destruction. At about 300 feet the pilot bailed out. His body hurtled for a moment like a bomb.

Jeeps, tanks and truck squealed and groaned to a halt. There was furious profanity aimed either at the enemy gun that may have got him or at the mechanical failure. They knew not which.

"Well, dammit, let's go," a medical sergeant shouted. Medics carrying a litter ran into the field.

The three other F-51s flew over their fallen comrade in tight, whining circles. They waggled their wings, guiding the medics through the rice field.

The advance on Pyongyang was forgotten. Swearing infantrymen jumped from the trucks and started into the field. A tank lurched down from the road after them.

There was a village out there and the enemy could be lurking. And infantrymen love pilots for battering and softening the enemy—if men can be said to love those they never see face to face.

The medics found the pilot beneath the great white blossom of the opened parachute. There was a blue bruise on his forehead. Blood ran from his mouth.

A medic felt his pulse. "He's still alive," he said.

The medics picked up the pilot carefully. They carried the litter off across the field and over a muddy stream.

They placed the pilot on the waiting tank. Then tank, medics, riflemen and the injured pilot went back to the road.

They put the pilot in a jeep ambulance and it went back down the road to the rear. The column moved on again toward Pyongyang.

An hour later the ambulance jeep came back. The riflemen in the column looked at the medic.

"The pilot died," the medic said.

U.N. TROOPS GET BIG WELCOME AS PYONGYANG FALLS

Reds Too Demoralized to Fight Despite Plans for Last-Ditch Stand—City Is Spared.

By HOMER BIGART
The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

PYONGYANG, Oct. 20 (delayed)—The heart of Pyongyang, Red capital of North Korea fell to United Nations troops shortly after dawn today. Bells in the Christian churches pealed a welcome to the Allied forces and streets were thronged by jubilant crowds celebrating the end of five years of Communist tyranny.

With almost unbelievable ease the strongly fortified administrative center of the north bank of the Taedong river was taken by the South Korean First Division, commanded by Gen. Paik Sun Wup.

Despite a proclamation from their puppet leader Kum Il Sung to "defend the city to the last" the Reds were too demoralized to fight. Elaborate preparations had been made for a last-ditch stand. As in Seoul every street had its sandbag barricade. Most of the public buildings were converted into strong points and 76-mm. guns commanded the principal intersections. Yet the guns were abandoned and the entrenchments unmanned.

City Spared Long Siege.

As a result the city was spared the agony of a long siege and was far less ravaged than Seoul. Most of the main Government buildings and the City Hall were intact. Of the principal landmarks only the opera has been destroyed by fire.

It was a pleasant city with handsome buildings, wide tree-lined streets and uncrowded residential areas along the low hills of the north bank of the river. It had neither the stench nor the filth of Seoul. There was no doubting the sincerity of the welcome.

Impromptu parades formed on the main street and converged on City Hall plaza to greet the South Korean troops. Huge pictures of Stalin and the North Korean puppet came toppling down from the facade of the Government office building and were torn to pieces by the crowd. A South Korean officer fixed a Red flag on his bayonet and mounting a horse galloped around the square waving it overhead while the throng cheered.

Meanwhile, the United States First Cavalry Division had secured the southern districts of Pyongyang but were prevented from crossing the Taedong in force by the enemy's demolition of the highway bridge. Two companies of cavalrymen got across the river by using the undamaged part of the main railway bridge to an island in mid-stream then going the rest of the way in assault boats. The Americans made contact with South Korean elements at 9 a.m. today.

Sudden Fall Unexpected.

There was ample evidence that the large Russian colony of military, political and economic advisers had not anticipated the sudden fall of Pyongyang. In the Soviet compound we found handbags filled with personal papers and toilet articles. A Russian general had left an album of photographs, mostly of himself. Two blocks away, on Stalin street, was the Russian commissary well stocked with Moscovite goods including caviar, chocolate, canned fish and some excellent Crimean wine. Correspondents who entered this building were confronted with an unusual problem of ethics. Were these comestibles spoils of war or the property of a neutral power.

Too hungry to wait for the international complications involved this correspondent took one link sausage, two bars of chocolate, one can of sturgeon, one bottle of muscatel and one bottle of vodka. The store had everything from radios and shoes to kitchen ware and cosmetics.

BIDS ON STATE JOB TOO HIGH

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 21 (AP)—The state will have to try again to get a bid low enough on waterproofing and repairing the present State Office Building here.

Three bids opened yesterday were more than $20,000 above the $30,000 allotted for the job. Low bidder was Southern Waterproofing Co. of Kansas City, with a base bid of $54,301.

MOLOTOV, SATELLITES TALK OVER WEST REICH REARMING

Russian and Seven Other Communist Nation Leaders Set Up Board to Study Allied Proposals.

PRAGUE, Oct. 21 (UP) — Foreign ministers of Eastern Europe announced today they were setting up a special commission to study proposals apparently aimed at countering the West's alleged plans to remilitarize Western Germany.

Soviet Vice Premier V. M. Molotov and the foreign ministers of Russia's seven neighbors in Eastern Europe attended the conference. They issued a brief communique which said:

"The ministers continued their talks on plans to remilitarize Western Germany. They decided to establish a mixed commission which is to consider proposals during the discussion."

The conference, called by Russia, began yesterday and will continue tonight. Deputy Prime Minister Zdenek Fierlinger of Czechoslovakia was elected chairman.

Molotov, former Soviet Foreign Minister, flew in from Moscow. Other foreign delegates had already arrived and met him at Prague's flag-decorated Ruzyne airport.

Other Ministers.

They were Foreign Ministers Mincho Neychev of Bulgaria; Zygmunt Modzelewski of Poland; Gyula Kallai of Hungary; Ana Pauker of Romania; George Dertinger of eastern Germany and V. Natanajli, Albanian minister to Moscow.

Only a few hours before the Prague conference, Russia made public the contents of identical notes sent to the United States, France and Britain, charging that the western nations were reviving German military might in their zones.

The notes rejected a western charge that the People's Police of Communist-ruled east Germany actually is a military organization, and warned the Soviet Union would not tolerate revival of "the German regular army in west Germany."

Molotov's name seldom has been in the news in recent months. Last August there were reports he was visiting Peiping, capital of Communist China, for talks on Asian affairs. Andrei Y. Vishinsky succeeded Molotov as foreign minister March 5, 1949.

Informed Allied sources in Germany said one purpose of the conference in Prague might be to devise schemes for offsetting the Communist loss of face in Korea.

Officers who deal with east European intelligence said they believed Molotov would undertake the task of explaining to the satellite ministers what happened in the Korean war and how they should present it to their people.

What the Kremlin wants satellite governments especially to combat, intelligence officers said, was the impression that Moscow left the North Korean Communists in the lurch when the tide of battle turned against them.

Elsewhere, there was speculation that the meeting might be asked to decide on a course of action against Yugoslavia, where for two years Premier - Marshal Josip (Tito) Broz has defied Moscow and carried out his own brand of Communism.

U.N. TO CALL FOR BIG FIVE TALKS ON PEACE PROBLEMS

relieve world tensions in a way compatible with decency and justice, we are quite prepared to accept all those opportunities and to explore them to the utmost."

Seeks Just Agreement.

Dulles said the problem was not to get just any agreement, but an agreement based on justice. Stating there was a tendency to oversimplify the problem, Dulles pointed out that in the years since World War II the major powers have held many meetings but have accomplished little.

Both Dulles and British Minister of State Kenneth Younger warned against false hopes of easy or early success even if the Big Five ultimately get together around a conference table. They told the committee the world's present tension stems from basic disagreements rather than from a lack of Big Power meetings.

The Security Council met behind closed doors today for another round in the battle over who should be Secretary-General.

Confronted by strong opposition, India withdrew a compromise proposal under which each of the 11 Council members would put two names in a secret ballot box. The Big Five then would knock out the names of those they could not approve and the Council would pick a successor to Norway's Trygve Lie from the names left.

The Council held a 90-minute fruitless session yesterday at which Russia served notice that, in addition to standing by its veto of Lie as a candidate for re-election, it also would put other names into nomination.

Jap Peace Treaty Offer.

Meanwhile, Dulles disclosed that Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik had advised him of Russia's willingness to enter informal talks with the United States on a Japanese peace treaty.

Two months ago the United States decided to go ahead with the treaty, with or without the co-operation of Russia. Dulles has been holding informal conversations with members of the Far Eastern Commission, trying to get some preliminary agreements in advance of formal negotiations.

Other developments in the U.N. were:

In the Special Political Committee, the United States opposed a British proposal that control of territory and population be made the criterion in settling the question of Chinese representation in the U.N. Ambassador Ernest A. Gross, representing the United States, said willingness and ability to comply with the Charter should be the deciding requisite.

Russia assailed in the Economic and Social Council American and Australian plans for Korean relief and rehabilitation. The Soviet Union charged they would open the way for "vultures" to exploit the war-torn country.

ADENAUER URGES GERMANS TO SHARE DEFENSE BURDENS

GOSLAR, Germany, Oct. 21 (AP) — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer called on Germans last night to shoulder their share of the burdens of Europe's common defense, but he ruled out re-militarization.

He told the annual congress of the Christian Democratic Union party that "security, even if it means a burden (for the West German republic), is better than destruction."

"Western Germany is directly exposed to Soviet power," he said. "In the event of Russian aggression, Germany would be the first victim."

Adenauer said the military guarantees of security given West Germany and West Berlin by the Western foreign ministers were "a great comfort" to all Germans.

Then he denied his government had ever committed itself to a revival of German militarism.

"Nobody has asked such commitments," he said. "No offer has been made either."

Adenauer pledged that "the federal government, the Bundestag (Parliament) and I personally will do everything within our power that militaristic thinking, which had its sharpest expression during the National Socialist (Nazi) time, will never return under any circumstances."

31,000,000 LETTERS TO KOREA

TOKYO, Oct. 21 (UP)—American forces in Korea received more than 31,000,000 letters in the past three months, the Headquarters Postal Branch said today. And they found time between the fighting to send more than 12,000 letters back.

DR. ROBT. MUELLER NAMED TO DRAFT ADVISORY POST

Heads Group to Apportion Medical Men Between Civilian Population and Armed Services.

Dr. Robert Mueller, who served as Missouri state chairman of the Physicians' Procurement and Assignment Service during World War II, has been appointed chairman of the Missouri Medical Advisory Committee for Selective Service, it was announced today in Washington.

Also named to the committee were Dr. Burton O. Haun, a dentist, of 634 North Grand boulevard, and Dr. Buford G. Hamilton, physician, director of the Missouri Division of Health, Jefferson City. A veterinarian will fill out the committee. He has not been named.

Dr. Mueller said his duties will be to apportion Missouri physicians properly between the civilian population and the armed services. Care will be taken, he said, to see that physicians are not taken from communities, medical schools or industries where their absence would result in hardship. The same principle, he said, would apply to selection of dentists for the services.

Dr. Mueller has offices in the Arcade Building and lives at 512 Purdue avenue, University City.

Draft boards in St. Clair county today were ordered by Illinois State Selective Service headquarters to supply a total of 211 men for induction into the Army at St. Louis during the first 10 days of November.

Induction dates, board numbers and their quotas are: Nov. 6, Board 191, six men; Board 192, 14; Nov. 7, Board 190, 26; Nov. 8, Board 190, 55; Nov. 9, Board 192, 55; Nov. 10, Board 191, 55.

Twenty-three additional Naval Reserve seamen, members of St. Louis Surface Brigade 9-7, were ordered to report for active duty Nov. 16, Capt. John C. Hammock, inspector-instructor of the brigade, announced today.

The orders bring to 1181 the number of brigade members called to active duty since the start of the Korean war.

Army Plans More Draft Calls for Medical Men.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—The Army plans further calls on the Selective Service System for physicians, dentists and veterinarians.

It said today that the request already made to Selective Service for 922 physicians, 300 dentists and 100 veterinarians by Jan. 15 represents only part of the Army's total needs.

"Additional requests will be made later as necessary to meet our requirements," a spokesman said. "Current uncertainties preclude firm estimates being made more than a few months in advance."

Selective Service is to meet the pending request from among 21,101 medical men who registered last Monday.

As soon as the medical draft law has produced enough doctors to meet current requirements, reserve medical captains and lieutenants who have been called to active duty involuntarily and who have had previous military duty will be relieved progressively if they request it. Slightly more than 100 doctors now on active duty will be eligible for such relief.

MEETINGS CALLED ON DOWNTOWN TRANSPORTATION, TRAFFIC NEEDS

Business Men, Transit Operators, Others to Discuss Ways to Ease Congestion at Peak Hours.

A series of meetings to discuss traffic and transportation problems in downtown St. Louis will be conducted by Mayor Joseph M. Darst's Mass Transportation Committee, it was announced today.

Business men, union leaders, operators of trucking companies and officers of transportation companies will be invited to participate in the conferences, designed to devise methods for relieving congestion in the peak traffic hours, Mayor Darst said.

Traffic Commissioner Charles E. Gonter recently said it was his opinion that staggering of working hours in the downtown area offered one practical solution to the problem. He said he would not recommend that because of previous intense opposition to it by merchants, but added he thought that sooner or later the merchants would arrive at that conclusion themselves.

The Mayor said downtown merchants are aware of the problem of street congestion, are thinking about it, and may have suggestions to offer. Separate meetings of the various groups will be held, he said.

The transportation companies to be invited will include the St. Louis Public Service Co. and the owners and operators of the taxicab and service car companies.

They are being called in because of the increasing use of private cars on downtown streets and the decreasing use of mass transportation facilities, City Counselor James E. Crowe, a member of the committee said.

The committee decided yesterday to recommend to the Board of Public Service that it deny requests for any additional taxicab operators' permits at this time.

MORRIS BINOWITZ ESTATE IS ESTIMATED AT $125,000

An estimate that the estate of Morris Binowitz, president and one of the founders of the Bee Hat Co., 1021 Washington avenue, will total at least $125,000 was made by his attorney today when he filed Binowitz's will in Probate Court.

A. B. Frey, attorney and co-executor, with Charles Binowitz, a brother, said bulk of the estate was in insurance, stock of firms owning real estate and the hat company. After specific bequests of $11,000 to charities, relatives and seven employes, the bulk of the residue will go to Charles and Samuel Binowitz, surviving brothers.

Five employes were left $1000 each. They were Raymond Eschbacher, Ben Goldman, Hyman Zuckerman, Erwin Kreisman and Harry Robin. Two others, Roy Harris and Frank Shelby, were left $500 each. Morris Binowitz died Oct. 16.

He learned the business in Switzerland and worked for a time in London before coming to St Louis. He was employed at Hotel Jefferson and went to the Statler 32 years ago, becoming chef 11 years later. He lived at 3922 Gustine avenue.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Louise Mayer Moresi; a daughter, Mrs. Charles Pistrui, and a brother, Peter Moresi. Funeral services will be Tuesday at 9 a.m. at Resurrection of Our Lord Catholic Church, 3880 Meramec street. Burial will be in SS. Peter and Paul Cemetery.

DOG LEAPS TO WOMAN'S LAP, SHE FALLS FROM THIRD FLOOR

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 (AP) — A small dog jumped onto the lap of its mistress today and knocked her out of a third-story window.

Mrs. Alice McElligott, 32 years old, taken to Woodlawn Hospital for examination, said she was sitting on the sill of an open window when her dog, Bridgett Ann, leaped affectionately onto her lap. She was thrown off balance and toppled out. Her fall was broken by tree branches. She landed on soft ground.

Doctors couldn't find anything serious—just some minor cuts and bruises.

Miss Dorris Fleck Named Queen Of Washington U. Homecoming

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

MISS DORRIS FLECK, Washington University homecoming queen, seated in tonneau of automobile as she rode in parade through city streets today.

Washington University students, riding in automobiles and on 35 decorated floats, paraded through the streets of St. Louis today in celebration of their annual homecoming.

The parade proceeded from Skinker boulevard east in Lindell boulevard and Olive street to Fifteenth street and thence south in Fifteenth to Chestnut where the marching Washington University band joined the procession.

From there the parade went east in Chestnut to Broadway, north to Washington avenue and west to Twelfth boulevard where the band members entered automobiles and returned to the campus. A number of Public Service Co. bus and streetcar lines were temporarily rerouted.

Miss Dorris Fleck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Fleck, 5512 Milentz avenue, who was named homecoming queen last night, presided over today's activities. She is a junior in the department of retailing.

Highlight of the homecoming celebration is this afternoon's football game between the Washington University Bears and the Broncos of Western Michigan.

Many of the floats in today's parade depicted a determination to beat the Broncos. Delta Sigma Phi's float showed a number of footbal players wearing masks in front of a structure named "Bear Glue Factory" while the Delta Gamma entry showed three girls in compartments marked with the king, queen and jack of hearts, with the caption: "This Game is a Sure Bet."

After the game, there will be open house at the Student Center and at fraternity houses. Tonight, a homecoming dance will be held at the Field House and Miss Fleck will be crowned queen by Chancellor Arthur H. Compton.

At a bonfire and rally last night on the campus, the selection of Miss Fleck as queen was announced. Following the rally, a party for alumni and their families was held in the Student Center.

ROBBERY SUSPECT CHASED TO HOTEL LOBBY AND CAUGHT

Patrolman Arthur Boles of Central District captured a man in the lobby of Hotel Jefferson early today after a chase of about three blocks from Eleventh and Pine streets, where the man had attempted to steal an automobile. Boles fired two shots, which missed.

The chase began when the man leaped from the driver's seat of a machine, being pushed north in Eleventh by a taxicab, and ran north in Eleventh and then west in Olive. One of Boles's shots struck a window casing of the Carl Tarkow Furniture Co., 1100 Olive, and the other broke a plate glass window of the Post-Dispatch Annex.

At this point, Walter Ditchburn, a KSD radio announcer who uses the name Walt Williams, drove by in his automobile and picked up Boles. They continued the chase west in Olive, north in Twelfth boulevard and west in Locust to the side door of the Jefferson. Boles collared the man in the lobby.

The man identified himself as Arthur Price, Negro, of the 4200 block of Delmar boulevard. He said he intended to have the machine pushed a few blocks from the Majestic Hotel, then steal its contents. Alton Strickland, a salesman who owned the automobile, said it contained samples of glass products valued at $900.

FOUR REDS SEIZED IN MURDER OF REBELLIOUS NORTH KOREANS

PYONGYANG, North Korea, Oct. 21 (UP)—Four Communist "atrocity killers" who slit the throats of 11 rebellious North Koreans have been captured by British troops, it was announced today.

Capt. Andy Craighead said the Communists lined up their victims with their hands tied behind their backs and then slashed their throats with a razor.

The alleged ringleader — the man who was said to have wielded the fatal razor—was identified by villagers as the labor boss and "chairman of the village."

"We weren't too gentle with him," Craighead said.

RESERVE HANDBILLS FROM AIR OFFER SAFETY IN DRAFT

Several thousand handbills promising "safe conduct through the draft" were dropped over the downtown area today from a liaison plane of the 381st Field Artillery Battalion, a reserve unit. The promises were made to young men eligible for induction on condition they joined the battalion.

Lt. Col. Willard Bixby, commanding the outfit, said "operation snowflake" was designed to dramatize the advantages of belonging to a reserve unit. Induction is postponed for those who enlist to fill organized reserve vacancies, he explained. Besides, the 381st needs 40 more enlisted men to bring it up to its authorized strength, he added.

Capt. Ralph Cox, the battalion's liaison pilot, flew the aircraft and dumped the leaflets overboard. The handbills urged prospective recruits to attend the unit's next meeting Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the Reserve Armory, 4100 Forest Park avenue.

Stating that recruits would "get through the draft painlessly" by joining the 381st, the leaflets also warned: "Veterans aren't out of danger and non-veterans can't be choosy. Join now and avoid 'greetings' later."

SCOTT FIELD NEEDS OLD BRICKS FOR BUILDING SIDEWALKS

Scott Air Force base near Belleville, is in the market for old bricks—for free.

Unable to obtain an appropriation for constructing sidewalks in the eastern section of the base, Col. Robert E. Kendig, commander of the 3310th Technical Training Group, organized a brick scrounging expedition.

During the past eight weeks about 185,000 bricks have been obtained, most of them from buildings razed on Vandeventer place, and about two miles of sidewalks were laid. There's another mile to go and about 150,000 more bricks are needed. Enlisted men from the field, equipped with trucks, call for the bricks and lay the walks. Scouts keep an eye out for salvaging operations.

Nine Hurt When Bonfire Blows Up At U.C.L.A. Homecoming Pep Rally

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21 (AP)—A 67-foot homecoming bonfire blew up last night in the middle of thousands of celebrants on the campus of the University of California at Los Angeles. The explosion injured nine persons, none seriously. Windows several blocks away were shattered.

Police estimated a crowd of 25,000 students and alumni was gathered around the huge pile when it exploded shortly after it was ignited. Planks and boxes showered on the crowd, gathered on the Bruin practice field.

The injured were treated for cuts and bruises at nearby Santa Monica hospital and released. All were southern Californians.

Students had spent weeks gathering the bonfire materials. The celebration preceded the U.C.L.A.-Stanford game today. Fortunately the crowd was held back 100 feet by ropes encircling the bonfire.

Capt. L. E. Christensen of the campus police said several small bombs, presumably placed by pranksters, were removed from the pile hours before it was ignighted but one or more may have been overlooked. He also said a gunpowder fuse used to start the fire may have caused the blast.

The U.C.L.A. graduate manager, William C. Ackerman, said he had no theory about the cause but "I am certain Stanford had nothing to do with it."

3 PEDESTRIANS KILLED, ONE DRIVER FLEES, GIVES UP

Woman and Two Men Are Struck in Separate Accidents as They Cross Streets.

Three pedestrians were killed by automobiles last night in separate accidents, in one of which the driver surrendered 10 hours after fleeing the scene of the fatality.

The dead are Mrs. Minnie R. Vasel, 74-year-old widow, of 5211 Finkman street; Norman Hendrix, 56, a maintenance man, of 1226A South Seventh street, and an unidentified Negro man about 60 years old.

John Patrick Carroll Jr., 424A Leavenworth road, Jefferson Barracks, surrendered early today to police of the Carondelet District with the admission he had driven the automobile that struck and killed Mrs. Vasel about 6 p.m. as she was crossing Kingshighway near her home. Mrs. Vasel, who got about on crutches, had been to a store and was carrying a bag of groceries when struck.

Carroll said he heard a thud and stopped his machine about 60 feet from the point of impact. After walking back to look at the body of Mrs. Vasel, he said, he became excited, returned to his machine and drove away. Later he conferred with his father who persuaded him to surrender. He was ordered held for the coroner.

Hendrix was struck as he attempted to cross United States Highway 40 near Gumbo in St. Louis county. Driver of the automobile, Kenneth C. Allen, 4907 West Pine boulevard, told the State Highway Patrol he attempted to swerve but could not avoid the pedestrian.

Hendrix, en route with his wife and son to his farm near Weldon Spring, had stopped his truck on the shoulder and was walking to a grocery across the highway when struck.

The unidentified man was struck at Jefferson avenue and Lawton boulevard by an automobile driven west on Lawton by Chief Machinist's Mate Emmett Norwood, 5900 Clemens avenue. Norwood reported he approached Jefferson avenue with the electric traffic signal in his favor and saw the man walking north in the west crosswalk of Jefferson. He said he applied his brakes but could not avoid striking him.

Florence Healey was arrested yesterday when the Moore & Hamm Advertising Co. discovered that two $15 checks had been increased to $115.

She told officers she had hiked other checks for the payment of the firm's bills in a similar manner. She said she cashed the checks, paid the bills with the cash, and kept the difference. Miss Healey was charged with grand larceny and forgery.

POPLAR STREET BLOCK CLOSED; COLLAPSE OF BUILDING FEARED

Poplar street was ordered closed to vehicular traffic today, between Sixth and Seventh streets, because of the threatened collapse of a portion of a three-story building of Mesker Bros. Iron Works, Seventh and Poplar streets.

A dangerous condition at the southeast corner of the building was reported to police last night by Louis Hamilton, plant manager of the Mesker Co. Following an inspection by city building inspectors, the block was barricaded against all traffic, including rail traffic on the Missouri Pacific Railroad track in Poplar street, pending repairs.

The Mesker plant and the adjoining Hanley & Kinsella Coffee Co. were swept by fire last January, with damage estimated at $250,000.

LAMB SLAUGHTERED BY ERROR AFTER IT WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 21 (AP)—It was all a horrible mistake, and cost Stubby, a Southdown wether lamb, his day of fame as grand champion at the American Royal Livestock Show yesterday. There was a slip-up, and today Stubby is chops, at $4.74 a pound.

That's what Eddie Williams, meat company executive, paid Ralph A. Hansens, who raised Stubby in Kingfisher, Okla., and exhibited him here.

Williams prepared two pens in which he wanted to show off Stubby and also the grand champion steer, a Hereford, which he bought at auction.

The steer made it, but not Stubby.

After leaving the auction block the lamb was turned over to handlers, and next he was mixed up with some common 30-cents-a-pound lambs. All were sent to a packing plant that does slaughtering for Williams.

A frantic phone call to the packer for Stubby's reprieve was an hour too late.

St. Louis Sergeant Wins Silver Star For Gallantry in Action in Korea

Carl P. Martin Knocks Out Two Roadblocks, Aids Wounded Though Burned by Grenade.

SGT. CARL P. MARTIN

Sgt. First Class Carl P. Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Martin, 3456 Crittenden street, has been awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action in the Korean war, his parents were informed today.

His feats, according to his citation, included knocking out two enemy roadblocks with a machine gun and then aiding wounded companions to get to an aid station under fire, though he had been knocked down and burned by a hand grenade.

On Sept. 4, the citation said, Sgt. Martin volunteered to man a machine gun in an exposed position on a truck to help get a load of supplies and ammunition through enemy territory to a beleaguered American unit on an isolated hill.

On the return trip, with the truck carrying a load of wounded Americans, the road was blocked by Red troops. Sgt. Martin knocked out this roadblock with his machine gun and dealt similarly with a second one encountered farther on.

Here, however, an enemy grenade knocked him from the truck and damaged his gun. Martin, though burned by the grenade, crawled to the aid of three other Americans pinned down by enemy fire and guided them to safety.

Martin, 24 years old, attended Hadley Technical High School, leaving his classes in May 1943 to join the Army. He served in the European theater and was awarded the Purple Heart for wounds suffered in 1945 in Italy. At the end of the war, he re-enlisted, served briefly in the United States and was sent to Japan in 1946. In July, he went to Korea with the Thirty-fifth Infantry Regiment of the Twenty-fifth Division.

TWO MEN ROB STORE MANAGER OF $9000 PAYROLL NEAR BANK

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 21 (AP)—Two gunmen robbed a chain store manager of a $9000 payroll in front of the First National Bank yesterday.

The robbers accosted George Glass, 52 years old, A. & P. store manager, as he left the bank, forced him into Glass's car at the curb and sped away, throwing him out a few blocks from the bank.

An unidentified woman witness to the 2:30 p.m. robbery said she heard one man say "here he comes" as Glass approached.

She said the men were waiting behind a Brinks armored truck parked outside the bank.

The gunmen abandoned Glass's car seven blocks from the bank.

STORE OWNER IS FINED $100 AFTER FIGHT OVER SUMMONS

Morton Thal, proprietor of an appliance store at 1641 Tower Grove avenue, was found guilty of peace disturbance yesterday by Police Judge James H. Connor and was fined $100. Thal pleaded not guilty and appealed the fine.

The charge grew out of a fight Thursday between Thal and two deputy constables, Charles Williams, 4006 McRee avenue, and Fred Rattler, 1010 Rutger street, who had served a summons on Thal in front of Thal's store.

In the fight, which took place inside the store, Williams threw an iron skillet at Thal, and Thal wielded a knife used for opening packing cases. Testimony differed as to who started the altercation.

GREECE TO GET 6 DESTROYERS UNDER U.S. MILITARY AID PLAN

ATHENS, Oct. 21 (AP) — An authoritative Government source said today the United States will turn over six destroyers to Greece under its military aid program.

Four of them are old-type vessels and are scheduled to be transferred by the end of 1950. The other two are modern ships and will be handed over later, the Government source said.

He added that crews already are en route to America for training before they man the destroyers.

DEFENSE ORDERS TOP $248,000,000 IN THIS DISTRICT

C. of C. Official Gives Figure for Contract Awards to Industry Through Oct. 12.

Businesses in the St. Louis district have obtained more than $248,000,000 in Government defense orders, William E. Kraemer of the Chamber of Commerce industrial bureau said yesterday.

Speaking at a luncheon of the chamber's sales managers' bureau, Kraemer said the total had been computed only to include contract awards made through Oct. 12 and, "as many of our firms are bidding daily, this amount will continue to grow."

Kraemer cited the figures in urging that St. Louis distributing firms, as well as manufacturing concerns, scan the daily list of Government requirements. Quite often, he said, it is more economical for the Government to make local purchases from distributors than from those who produce the goods.

He said, for example, that one St. Louis photographic supply house that does not manufacture a single item that it sells, recently received two orders for about $4000. Two other firms bid on 5½ tons of grass seed for the Navy.

"If you produced goods for the military in World War II," he said, "it would be wise to contact the agency with which you did business. If you have no such contact and want to participate in the program, the information office of the Munitions Board in the Pentagon building at Washington will advise you of agencies seeking your goods."

GRACE METHODIST CHURCH TO PUT U.N. FLAG IN ITS CHANCEL

The Rev. Wesley H. Hager, pastor of the church, will devote his sermon to the United Nations at the 11 o'clock service tomorrow morning.

4 CHINESE CATHOLICS KILLED BY PEIPING REDS AS SPIES

HONG KONG, Oct. 21 (UP) — The Chinese Communist news agency said today four Chinese Catholics, including two priests, were executed near Peiping for spying and attempted assassination of Red leaders. Two priests and two laymen were sentenced to prison. One of them died, the agency said.

The sentences were handed down by a "people's court" in Shihchuachuang, 150 miles southwest of Peiping, last Monday and carried out the same day, the agency said. The trial took place last July.

The priests executed were identified as the Rev. Wu Ya-ko, head Catholic priests in the area, and the Rev. Chao-Ya-keh. The report said the defendants belonged to the Catholic Patriotic Corps which gathered military intelligence for the Chinese Nationalists.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

Bull-Headed Elephant

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Since the peak in 1940, the total votes cast in Missouri has declined. This decline is attributed to apathy on the part of the voters. Such designation is open to question. A close study of conditions as they exist and are apparently influenced by the conduct of campaigns leads one to believe that far from being apathetic, the average voter becomes more and more disgusted, apprehensive and frustrated as campaigns progress, with the result that on election day they declare "a plague on both your houses" and go about their business.

I am convinced that the Republican leaders are deliberately engaged in a campaign to keep as many of the more intelligent voting public as possible in a constant state of disgust in order to avert any threat to their control of party machinery. For 18 years the Democratic party has been engaged in practices which offered the best possible opportunity for constructive opposition. Yet year after year the Republican organization has failed utterly to offer any constructive alternative or to attack the real issues. And when, during a short period, they held the reins, they failed to measure up to their opportunity.

Their publicity policy has defeated them at the polls in each of the three most recent elections, and yet they cling to the one idea of "smear tactics" and "sensational headlining," with threats they could not carry out if elected. This bids fair to defeat them again, when they had a fair chance of winning.

Nothing but sheer stupidity and lack of information as to procedure could have spawned the threat to impeach Forrest Smith through a Republican-controlled House. Such a move would be asinine in the extreme. For a Republican House to prefer charges—which it cannot substantiate—to be tried by an impartial panel of seven judges chosen by a Democratic Senate would result in complete vindication, with disastrous repercussions in 1952. Will they never, never learn?

Eyes and TV

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

My eye specialist told me, "Naturally, television is harmful," to children's eyes. On his opinion, I based my stand of no television at our house. Of course, I might add in all fairness that the fact that I have never seen a program yet at our friends' houses I would voluntarily sit through also had a bit to do with it.

Children are persistent little salesmen, and parents right and left gleefully report on the "peace" that descends on their households with little Johnnie and Susie glued in front of the set for hours.

Is my doctor's idea universally held? How about a poll of all the leading eye specialists in the city? Let parents be advised whether they are selling the future good eyesight of their children to an imperfect medium for a few hours' "peace" at present.

ANTI-TELEVISION.

Unfair Burden?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Concerning your recent attack on St. Louis hotel owners, do you happen to know that it would cost a small hotel owner more than $6000 just to install a sprinkler system? Many of these small hotels are owned by men over 60 years of age, who have put their life savings into this particular project because other ways of earning a living aren't open to them.

And surely you have read that practically all hotel fires are started by the careless cigarette smoker who can go merrily on his way, probably to another hotel, and burn up linen, mattresses, ruining furniture, but is never punished. Hotel owners are victims of the cigarette smoker—that is, the careless ones.

I believe hotels, rooming houses and even homes should be inspected and made just as safe as it is possible. I think also there should be a law for careless smokers. But this safety code has been a law for four years. Why is it being put in force right now?

Our Oscar

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I'm becoming enthusiastic about your magazine section. If there is a literary "Oscar," it is hereby awarded to you for merit and improvement.

Peter Wyden's recent "dream house" article was tops—every bit as good as the Blandings original. Myles Standish continues to sort out the grain or two of wheat from the rubbish heap of movie offerings—a real service to movie patrons.

For a serving of the quaint, the odd, the unusual, selected from the social scene, Mr. Behymer can always be depended upon. Finally, every newspaper in America should have a Leonard Hall to carry on the agitation for soil and forest conservation. A doughty warrior in the field of soil erosion.

If any other magazine section provides a mental bill-of-fare equal to your current one it is unknown to me.

Crisis in Israel

The new state of Israel has reached its first cabinet crisis with the resignation of Premier David Ben-Gurion; and it is a nasty one. Both economic and religious differences are among the causes; and the crisis may adversely affect both the prospects of a peace treaty with Jordan and the raising of a billion dollars in the United States.

The immediate reason for Ben-Gurion's resignation was the withdrawal of the Orthodox bloc from the cabinet. This bloc represents both pious laborers and business men, so it is not without internal economic differences. The business men, however, have been highly critical of Socialist Ben-Gurion's economic policies, and their feeling finally manifested itself in a refusal to accept his plan for a revised Ministry of Trade and Industry. The plan is a compromise with concessions on Ben-Gurion's part, but his opponents have denounced the concessions as empty.

* * *

As for the religious element in the clash, the Orthodox leaders want a showdown on a number of issues which, so they say, Ben-Gurion had been dodging. These include a Sabbath observance law, religious control over marriage and divorce, and a ban against the importation of non-Kosher meat.

How long-drawn-out the crisis may be and what effects it will have are, of course, speculative considerations. Because of Israel's refusal to close its gates to immigrants, it must carry on extensive economic developments to provide food, shelter and employment. As was recently pointed out on this page, a $1,500,000,000 development plan has been drafted. Israel hopes to raise about two-thirds of this sum in the United States through a bond issue, other forms of private investment, and an intensified United Jewish Appeal. A cabinet crisis should not block the project, but a strong government certainly could expedite it.

Peace in the Middle East also would help. On this front, Egypt is pressing charges against Israel before the United Nations. Egypt still is smarting under military defeat, and may be the last of the Arab League states to reach agreement with Tel Aviv. King Abdullah of Jordan, however, is reported to be eager for a treaty. According to a correspondent of The New York Times, unacknowledged negotiations are under way. There is a strong feeling that the Arab League is so badly divided on its policy of not recognizing Israel that, if one member state makes the break, the others, with the possible exception of Egypt, will be quick to follow.

* * *

These factors ought to exert great pressure for solidarity inside Israel. Perhaps Ben-Gurion hoped that a crisis might be the means for strengthening the Government by demonstrating the cost of disagreement.

Asked by President Chaim Weizmann to form a new coalition cabinet, he offered to assemble one made up only of members of his own party. This proposal was rejected by the legislature. So Dr. Weizmann now has asked Justice Minister Pinhas Rosen to form a new coalition. Even if he succeeds, such a cabinet might find itself embarrassed with the powerful Ben-Gurion in opposition. Israel's new democracy is up against a real test.

Six Months' Salvation

The Darst Administration and Board of Aldermen deserve credit for extending federal rent controls here until next July. Yet this action grants only six months' salvation from the danger of inflationary rent increases. Further action must come from Congress.

Since July 1, when the current rent law went into effect, 54 communities with 1,400,000 residents have decontrolled rents. But 101 others with 7,000,000 inhabitants have, like St. Louis, acted to keep federal controls for six months past Dec. 31.

There still are half as many housing units under rent ceilings across the country as during World War II. This is a mark of the continued housing shortage.

The situation may grow even worse. Defense expenditures are adding to inflationary pressures against rents as well as other items. New credit restrictions will slow home building and leave a swollen rental market. And the present Congress is unlikely to act on rent controls again when it reassembles in November.

St. Louis tenants are fortunate in their temporary respite from a rent spiral. Thousands elsewhere have no protection at all. Next January the new Congress probably will have to begin immediate work on an effective rent law, but it may be difficult then to put the lid back on the kettle where it was allowed to pop off.

Passing of a Boss

Like so many city bosses, Edward J. Kelly was an apolitical politician. That is to say, he came to public office with no very strong convictions about what to do with it. He rode no white horse, breathed heavily for no crusade. His job, as he saw it, was to run the City of Chicago and run the Democratic party of Cook county. He did both with firmness and vigor and none too rigid scruples.

Kelly rose to power through the Sanitary District, which in the "Whoopee era" of the '20s rocked with scandals. But they never caught Kelly. He was indicted once, with four others, for bribery and conspiracy to defraud the public treasury. The indictment was quashed, and a new one was brought omitting Kelly's name. The four others went to prison. Kelly went to the City Hall.

With this background, he was not the man to examine the methods of machine politics with a critical eye. Yet as he consolidated his power he gained a reputation as a tough leader with the capacity to "keep the boys in line." They didn't carry off the City Treasury under his administration. Maybe a nickel here, a dime there, but nothing big enough or obvious enough to shake his power. And so he became acceptable to business interests and other groups which wanted a strong man at the helm.

Mrs. Roosevelt once brought down derision on her head by remarking that Ed Kelly wasn't as bad as he had been painted. The kernel of truth was that in his latter years he did begin to develop some appreciation of the social and political principles for which the liberal wing of the Democratic party was working. Having first attached himself to Roosevelt as a man who could help him win local elections, he came to believe in what Roosevelt stood for. The Mayor whose police force shot down the Republic Steel strikers became a pro-labor politician. The politician whose original interest in Negroes was confined to their votes came to fight courageously for their rights.

But he couldn't buck the postwar demand in Chicago for "clean" government. Kelly stepped aside and the people elected a "clean" Mayor. Nevertheless, Chicago, as the Kefauver Committee investigation is showing, remains pretty much the same old Chicago.

Food for Yugoslavia

The delicate process of encouraging Tito to throw in his lot with the side of the West is making progress. The weather can take part of the credit.

Yugoslavia was hard hit by drouth this summer, and it needs food and animal fodder desperately. With an eye both to stocks still remaining in the country, and to the possibilities of getting help from the United States, Tito has increased the distance which separates him from the Kremlin by abolishing the special privileges, including extra food rations, enjoyed by members of the Communist party.

This stroke not only is a popular one in Yugoslavia, whose citizens now can be assured that life will be equally hard for everybody this coming winter, but also in every country where deviation from Moscow-style Communism is greeted with approval.

Far from the least of these is the United States. And the United States ought to respond, as Secretary Acheson has promised it would, by giving Tito what food and animal fodder it can.

There are many reasons why this course is incontestably right. One is to encourage Tito to make more such moves away from the Kremlin and toward the democracies. Another is that the United States ought to maintain its moral position by doing everything possible to help people in need, wherever they may be.

Giving Yugoslavia food might have immediate ramifications in the Balkans which could help the West. For getting the food into Yugoslavia is complicated by the fact that Salonika, the best available port, happens to be in Greece. And Greece has closed the railroad between that country and Yugoslavia because of continuing and long-standing Yugoslav claims to represent the Macedonian minority in Greece. But now Tito needs food, and perhaps with a little skillful diplomacy here and a little gentle persuasion there, the food could be turned into a lever to help re-open the railroad and settle the Macedonian matter.

And, of far greater importance, it ought to be a cardinal goal of Western diplomacy to maintain Tito in his position of independence from the Cominform. So long as he survives, the Communist world has living proof that it is possible to rebel against Moscow, and get away with it.

Not Donnell Luck

Donnell luck has become something of a legend in Missouri politics. It is based, of course, on Forrest Donnell's success in winning election to both the Governor's office and the United States Senate in the face of Democratic presidential victories in the state and nation.

Missouri's Democrats have been charged with supplying the chief ingredients of his good fortune in such forms as Pendergastism and the Governorship Steal. Again, the Democratic state administration's record is something to talk about. And St. Louis Republican candidates are talking about it—even more than about their own qualifications for office.

But they are not talking about Forrest Donnell for another term in the Senate. In fact, they are telling voters how to split a ticket. This may be a tacit confession on the part of the local G.O.P. candidates that they do not believe Forrest Donnell can carry St. Louis against Thomas Hennings Jr. It could also mean that important members of his own party no longer have much enthusiasm for the Senator.

Whatever it is, it is not part of the Donnell luck.

Stafford Cripps Resigns

After three months of rest which brought no improvement in his health, Sir Stafford Cripps has resigned as Chancellor of the Exchequer. So the one man of his party and generation in Britain who probably has the surest claim to the title of statesman passes from active politics.

In politics, Cripps was almost always a paradox. He was a wealthy man with a lucrative law practice who spent most of his life urging Britain toward Socialism. And he was a Socialist who believed steadfastly in a balanced budget. He wanted a greater measure of prosperity for Englishmen, but he did not hesitate to close the dollar gap with austerity.

Cripps had a very considerable capacity for hard, precise work, but the real measure of the man always has been his devotion to principle. For that, he was once read out of the Labor party. In spite of differences in personality and preferences, a certain analogy with Winston Churchill is inevitable. Churchill, too, once was out of favor with his party. But both men rendered unselfish service when the call came. Churchill is more likely to see the banners and hear the bugles. Cripps has more of an eye for the slums and more of an ear for the factory whistles. Between them, they represent England.

Too Grim to Be Played With

In his merciless attack on "creeping mobilization" and patchwork inflation control, Bernard M. Baruch touched on a point which is seldom noticed. Explaining why he feels so strongly about inflation, he said:

> I know that our ability to stop inflation is the very test of our democracy—the thing which may determine in the long run how long we can survive.

Ever since the great depression of the '30s, most Americans have assumed that the major test of democracy would be whether it could avoid a repetition of that experience. A great deal of thought and planning has gone into the techniques by which a democracy might arrest deflation.

But we now find that the test is coming on precisely the opposite battleground. In many ways it is a severer test. To arrest inflation, things must be done against the short-term interest of powerful groups in our society. The cruel and unfortunate fact is that to many groups inflation in its early stages is pleasant. Money is easily made and easily spent. The boomtime atmosphere creates an illusion of limitless employment and endless profits. While the rewards are uneven and some groups suffer acutely, many people have the sense of being on a glorious joyride.

Until the crash. As we found out in 1929, the joyride has a disastrous end for everybody. Somehow we must apply that knowledge in advance. We must act in the common interest before the crash as we would act after. As Mr. Baruch has been saying these many months, inflation is too grim and too dangerous to be played with. It must be stopped by all-out action.

The Real Sugar Shortage

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Hoarding housewives should not take full blame for sugar shortages, though officials often blame them, editorial says; charges that Government and domestic sugar producers rig market against consumers; quotas on imports caused by "reverse Robin Hood politics."

From Fortune

The facts of the sugar situation are not sweet, and so are not being widely told. President Truman and others insist that the United States has plenty of sugar, and that hoarding housewives are to blame for occasionally bare grocery shelves. Like most half-truths, this version of the facts is deceptive.

It serves to obscure the fact that the Department of Agriculture and sugar producers, engaged in their perennial game of rigging the market against the consumer, were, like crapshooters in an alley, caught by the sudden glare from Korea.

Charles F. Brannan

Panic buying of sugar has largely stopped; in most stores housewives can find sugar tomorrow if not today. But the industrial users who account for about half of sugar consumption—confectioners, bakers, canners, beverage makers, etc.—are scraping the bottom of their bins and will continue to do so for some months.

They are naturally indignant, as they have been for years, about the Government practice of keeping supply short and prices high for the benefit of about 56,000 United States sugar farmers and the sugar processing and refining industry (employing about 25,000).

Most United States-grown sugar is beet; cane grows only in Louisiana and Florida. Sugar farmers are so potent a political handful largely because they are bunched in Western states where one vote may count as heavily toward the election of a Senator as 50 or 100 do in the East.

During the 1920s and early '30s, on the excuse that the United States should develop a domestic sugar supply for wartime use, the growers were protected by a tariff that rose to $2 per hundredweight on Cuban sugar (while the sugar itself was selling for only 57 cents per hundredweight).

But even this drastic barrier failed to offset the natural advantages of the tropics. And the tariff boomeranged against the domestic growers by stimulating cane growing in Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Philippines.

So in 1934 the farmers' friends in Washington handed them a handsome package combining tariff, subsidy and a cartel-like quota system for keeping out foreign raw sugar. Through what President Roosevelt called an "unholy alliance" between sugar farmers and domestic refiners, a quota system was also provided for refined sugar.

The quotas were suspended in 1942, as a result of the United States entry into World War II, the tariff was reduced, and for a time just after the war major sugar consumers actually were able to buy freely enough to accumulate some reserves. Then in 1948 the sugar lobby went to work and the whole depression-conceived apparatus of 1934 was restored.

This time quotas were even extended to sugar refined in Hawaii and Puerto Rico. All this despite the fact that the "self-sufficiency" argument had broken down completely during World War II. For lack of manpower, United States beet-sugar production dropped from a high of 1,900,000 tons in 1940-41 to less than one million in 1943-44.

Under the Sugar Act of 1948 the Secretary of Agriculture is directed to determine each December precisely how much sugar the United States will consume in the following year. He then allots percentages of this amount among United States and foreign producers. United States growers get about 60 per cent of the total. Almost all of the rest is divided between the Philippines and Cuba.

Last December, Secretary Brannan set United States sugar consumption for 1950 at 7,500,000 tons—148,000 tons less than were actually used in 1949. Industrial sugar users figured he was 600,000 tons short.

Consumption was already running about 200,000 tons over last year when the North Korean attack set off a buying wave that swept shelves and warehouses clean and put refinery prices up from $7.85 to $8.25 per hundredweight. Mr. Brannan was obliged to raise the national sugar allowance by 350,000 tons, but it was soon clear that even this was not enough.

Far from being ready for an emergency, the United States, through years of persistent under-importation, had been forced to use up most of its reserves of stored sugar. Luckily Cuba had started the year with what looked to be a million-ton surplus. By the time the Government got around to buying on July 30, there were still 600,000 tons of it left.

So, for the moment, the country does own plenty of raw sugar. Present prospects are for bumper crops next year in United States-supplying areas. Furthermore President Truman, by declaring a national emergency, could enlarge the quotas on imports of refined sugar.

Hence, unless the Politburo decides to make it a general war and vast quantities of sugar must again be diverted to making high explosives, there seems no likelihood of a return to individual rationing. But the time required for shipping and refining sugar, plus increased military buying, will keep steady pressure on supplies.

In December, barring war, the Secretary of Agriculture will presumably decree once more that the American people—who seem to be more or less resigned to being bilked by such reverse Robin Hood politics—shall have less sugar than they might otherwise consume, and pay more for it than they otherwise would.

In the years since 1925-29, while sugar prices were increasing by about 100 per cent, average annual consumption of sugar by Americans has dropped from 106 to 93 pounds per capita. That is the sugar lobby's curious monument.

Memories From London

A Letter to The Shreveport (La.) Times

Recently I received a clipping from one of the St. Louis (I suppose) papers which contained an item "from The Shreveport Times" on the subject of hunting squirrels in Kirkwood as a boy. The item was apparently prompted by a note in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch "that police squad cars have been ordered to launch an all-out attack on squirrels—with shotguns, rifles and any other available weapons—in suburban Kirkwood, etc."

Upon reading the above delightful clipping I felt that I must have written it myself for it reflected all that I remembered on that subject as a kid of some 35 years ago in Kirkwood. The person who thoughtfully sent the clipping to me here in London must have felt the same way.

I often wonder if the boys of today will be able to remember with such pleasure in years to come the things they did as kids.

I also am wondering who "the boy" is on The Shreveport Times who remembers so clearly the Gratz place, the Boyd place, Sugar Creek and the Big Bend area? Could he also remember escapades in the quarry in Meramec Highlands, Mosher's landing on the Meramec, Two-Mile Creek, and hooking rides to Valley Park and Glencoe on the freights of the old Mo Pac?

Yours sincerely,

Cottontown Revisited

Harnett T. Kane in The New York Times.

Some years back Mr. Kroll drew attention (disturbing to traditionalists) with his best-selling "Cabin in the Cotton" (1933) and "I Was a Sharecropper" (1937). His were unsentimentalized, unglossed portraits of Southern ills (though generally without emphasis on incest, perversion and the like) and they helped fix a trend which has abated only slightly of late. His "Cabin" became one of the first Hollywood attempts to portray, more or less realistically, a rural Southern locale.

Since then Mr. Kroll has shown a remarkable record of productivity; his total is now 17 books. He has written several historical novels, among them an excellent treatment of a celebrated mountain feud. This year, with a volume that marks something of a change of pace he gives us a Cottontown Revisited, with certain controversial overtones.

In "Lost Homecoming" a former poor-white cabin dweller has written a novel about cotton croppers, seen it flare into best-sellerdom, watched it evolve into a movie. Now he returns home for the "world premiere." The book covers a period of several days in which the town and vicinity react to (1) the author's portrait of themselves and (2) his success.

Harry H. Kroll

Darie, the "I" of Mr. Kroll's book, is snubbed by the matriarch whom he betrayed, called a Communist by club ladies, patronized, gawked at, otherwise buffeted about. Still, one Cottontown aristocrat (who had previously treated him with varying disdain) indicates that she might now consider him for a husband—and accepts him, pro tem., as a satisfactory lover. The essence of the novel is the question: Will Darie get a divorce and marry her now, or, instead, remember the days when she wouldn't have him?

The book consists largely of Darie's recollections of his earlier years, in a series of long flashbacks; and it is in these passages that the author is at his best. He describes cotton-country scenes with pungency; he evokes, with pity and fury, the agonizing wants of his poor-white family. From these pages emerges his best character, the mother—a mountain woman, profane, violent, almost entirely unlovable.

This is an uneven book, and sometimes its parts do not quite emerge; Mr. Kroll seems to write occasionally to get something off his chest. He seems more at home in his earnest passages than in lighter ones; the reader will remember longest those hours of want and frustration—and especially the walloping, cursing Mama.

An Adventurer of the South Seas

HIS MAJESTY O'KEEFE, by Lawrence Klingman and Gerald Green. (Charles Scribner's Sons, $3.50.)

It has been almost 50 years since a giant of a man, with flaming red hair and whiskers, became a legend in his own lifetime as the American King of Yap, Monarch of Mapia and Sovereign of Sonsorol. He had fled from his home in Georgia in 1870, believing that he had killed a man, only to be wrecked in a typhoon off Yap and washed ashore half dead. He became almost a god to the gentle natives who had saved his life. Cornering the Yap money market, simply by taking over the quarries that produced the stone money, he controlled the Yaps.

They supplied tons of copra and trepang which he marketed at tremendous profit in Hong Kong. He married a beautiful half-native girl and reared a family. Becoming richer, he extended his empire to other nearby isles, remaining a benevolent dictator over the natives. By digging in old books and papers which told of his meetings with explorers, traders, sea and naval captains, and colonial administrators, the authors reconstructed the life of this lusty South Seas adventurer.

ABC's of Our Foreign Policy

U.S. Helps Others to National Independence as Step Toward Democracy — Chinese Situation in 1945 Called Made to Order for Communism.

This is the thirteenth section of the Post-Dispatch publication of the State Department's booklet, "Our Foreign Policy," the official simple explanation of the Administration's course in this highly controversial field.

ONE of the truths of which we ourselves are convinced, and of which we want to convince others, is that American democracy is liberal and progressive; American policy is a force for freedom.

An example of this truth can be seen in the American attitude toward national independence. We know from experience that independence is the way to freedom and dignity. It opens the door to popular self-government—though it does not guarantee democratic rights and privileges.

We recognize, of course, that not all people are now ready to shoulder the burdens of independence and self-government, but we affirm the right and the capability of all peole to work toward them. And where an independence movement has strong popular support, we are inclined to give it the benefit of the doubt.

The American attitude has an ethical as well as a political background. For, as Secretary Acheson has said, the "truth is that just as no man and no government is wise enough or disinterested enough to direct the thinking and the action of another individual, so no nation and no people are wise enough and disinterested enough very long to assume the responsibility for another people or to control another people's opportunities."

Some Americans have been troubled by the fact that the nations whose independence we have helped to establish and maintain have not all had representative governments or practiced democracy as we understand it. This raises the question of what we mean when we speak of "free" nations and "free" peoples. It is worth clearing up this question which has caused a good deal of confusion about American policy.

"Free" Country Defined.

A "free" country is one that does not have to take orders from a foreign government. Believing as we do that national independence is a stepping stone to popular government and personal liberty, we set a high value on the independence even of those nations which cannot by any stretch of the imagination be called democracies.

The fact that we help a country to be free of foreign domination does not mean that we support the particular government it happens to have at any particular time. It means that we want the kind of international community in which each nation is free to manage its own affairs, subject, of course, to its pledges and responsibilities under the United Nations Charter. Within the broad area of the Charter, there is plenty of room for people to experiment and to change their forms of government, if they wish—plenty of room for progress toward democracy.

In recent years the United States has had a chance to prove that it is still the traditional friend of young nations, still the champion of peoples seeking their independence. Since the end of the second World War more than 500,000,000 people have gained their independence. Eight new nations have been born. The United States has assisted at the birth of these nations, as far as it could. It has vigorously supported their membership in the United Nations.

In the Philippines we had our best opportunity to demonstrate that American policy means what it says. The 20,000,000 citizens of those islands celebrated their independence on July 4, 1946, as a result of a promise we made and kept. Moreover, we not only welcomed them into the community of nations but helped them to organize and finance their free society.

To India, Pakistan, Burma and Ceylon we are giving our strong and friendly support. The people of Israel have had America's moral and material backing since the beginning of their struggle for nationhood.

Americans can take pride in their contribution to the creation of the Republic of Indonesia. During the long and difficult negotiations between the Indonesian and Netherland Governments, American diplomacy played an important and sometimes a decisive part in bringing the parties together and in helping them, finally, to work out a satisfactory agreement.

Ordeal of Chinese People.

However strong and determined we are in our support of freedom and independence, American policy cannot shape every situation. We shall not always succeed, even though our action may be the only wise and honorable policy from the point of view of America's long-range interests.

We Americans learn and periodically relearn that there is no miracle by which we can save the liberties of a people that is not determined to work and fight for its liberties. Where an iron determination exists, American aid and support can be an important and sometimes a determining factor in a struggle for independence. That determination existed in Greece, though Nazi occupation did its best to destroy the Greek spirit. It did not survive in Czechoslovakia. It had been drained away in China by the kind of suffering and hopelessness that leads people to seek and accept desperate remedies.

When, in 1945, the Chinese people emerged from the ordeal of a Japanese conquest, they were determined upon change and reform. The Nationalist Government had undisputed control of the country. It had prodigious American aid and the wise counsel of Gen. Marshall. It had the diplomatic support of the great powers. In spite of all these advantages, the Nationalist Government lost the allegiance of the Chinese people, because it did not use that aid, support and advice to restore the confidence of the people in its leadership.

This was a situation made to order for Communism. The Nationalist Government disintegrated, its armies melted away; Chinese Communists took possession of the vacuum.

Could Have Intervened.

Only one alternative course of action might have saved China from Communism: a full-scale intervention by United States military forces on behalf of the Nationalist Government. To intervene in what was then still unquestionably a civil war between Chinese Nationalists and Chinese Communists would have meant reversing our history and our character, abandoning our principles and our good name—and risking defeat. It would have branded the United States as an imperialist power in the minds of the people of Asia. It would have embroiled the United States in a war in China which could have brought neither peace nor any real victory.

Time and again the Chinese people have shown a capacity to liberate themselves by outlasting and absorbing their conquerors. Will they be able, in time, to free themselves from Soviet domination? Among those who know and understand China there is a strong belief that the traditional pride and independent spirit of the Chinese people will, in the long run, triumph over every foreign attempt to dominate them—including the present attempt. Whether or not this judgment turns out to be right will depend on many factors, both in and outside China. It will depend on the toughness of other Asian peoples in standing up for their independence against Communist pressure. It will depend on the strength we can add to theirs, and on American example—the kind of example we set in Korea. It will depend on the speed and firmness of the United Nations in dealing with threats to the peace.

We shall be deluding ourselves if we think that American policy can, BY ITSELF, bring about the liberation of the Chinese people or guarantee the progress of independence and freedom in Asia as a whole. By our own enlightened choice, we are part of a great coalition which is learning how to mobilize the power of free nations for peace. Our first duty is to strengthen and unite that coalition and to identify it beyond all doubt in the minds of people as the spearhead of the liberal revolution for freedom and progress. That is our long-range purpose, as expressed in the Charter of the United Nations. We belong to the free community, and our role is one of partnership.

TOMORROW—The meaning of Korea.

Farmer Vote Doubtful in Iowa Contest

G.O.P. Senator Busy Explaining His Record.

By DORIS FLEESON

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 21.

"ALL LOVELAND hasn't a chance to win a Senate seat for the Democrats here from Senator Hickenlooper. . . ."

Jim Russell, agricultural oracle of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, mecca of visiting firemen these days, put a worried frown on Secretary of Agriculture Brannan's brow and reaped a happy smile from William Mylander, Republican publicist, with this starter.

". . . any more than Harry Truman had a chance to carry Iowa in 1948," Russell invariably concludes.

Russell's little joke is designed to suggest that, as in 1948, the Republican candidate has Iowa political history on his side but that the farmers, especially in the cash grain area, are raising questions that put the outcome in doubt. What they principally want to know is simply: "Who will make farmers the best Senator?" and here the Democrats get a break.

Loveland's Campaign.

Al Loveland is a farmer, well known to the state as its one-time AAA administrator, former Under Secretary of Agriculture and director of Iowa's food-production program during World War II. Bourke Hickenlooper is a Cedar Rapids lawyer who was seduced by the international glamor of his importance as chairman or ranking member of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy to the detriment of his work on the Senate agriculture committee.

Loveland is telling farmers that their hired hand in the Senate, Hickenlooper, showed up for farm work only one day in six, voted for a lower corn loan rate, against school lunch funds which consume Iowa pork and milk, against rural electrification, and was absent and not voting on corn and other price-support programs. This attack has kept Senator Hickenlooper beating the bushes, especially in the small towns which are his major bulwark.

The famous Brannan plan is an in-and-out issue. As Vice President Barkley let slip, Democrats have been backing away from it. But Loveland was Brannan's undersecretary and Democrats beat the drums right here in a great debut for the Brannan brain child last year.

Feud Worries Democrats.

Secretary Brannan's feud with Allan Kline, president of the powerful Farm Bureau Federation, an Iowan, is another troublesome factor for Democrats. The result is that Kline's considerable influence will operate against Loveland to the incidental benefit of Hickenlooper.

Roughly speaking, the Iowa vote centers in three major blocs. The Senator has a substantial edge in the important small towns. Loveland will benefit to some undetermined degree from labor activity in the larger cities.

The farmers will set the final verdict. And the farmers are not made or fearful as in '48 when corn prices plummeted and storage was lacking due to a Republican Congress—they are only questioning.

After 1948, nobody will lay a bet.

FIRST ILLEGAL TV STATION FOUND, CLOSED BY FCC

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—The Federal Communications Commission said yesterday it had found and closed down an illegal television station—the first such case involving television.

The station, atop a Pennsylvania mountain, was being operated by the tube division of Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., Emporium, Pa., the FCC said. Sylvania is one of the country's largest producers of television tubes.

The explanation given by company executives for the unlicensed operation, the commission said, was that they needed TV service in their business but knew the two-year-old freeze on TV broadcasting permits ruled out new station permits.

The FCC noted that unlicensed TV operation involves a possible fine of $10,000 or two years imprisonment or both. It said "further proceedings will be taken" in the case.

Officials said Sylvania had started broadcasts about Sept. 1 from a $7000 transmitter on Whittemore mountain near Emporium. Program material was picked up from Station WJAC-TV in Johnstown, Pa., and rebroadcast in the Emporium area, FCC said.

An FCC monitoring station detected the broadcasts.

GAETANO VIVIANO FUNERAL TO BE AT 8:30 A.M. MONDAY

Funeral services for Gaetano Viviano, one of the founders of the V. Viviano & Brothers Macaroni Manufacturing Co., Inc., will be at 8:30 a.m. Monday from the Ambruster undertaking establishment, 6633 Clayton road, to the Church of the Little Flower, Arch terrace and Boland drive. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Mr. Viviano collapsed and died yesterday at an importing firm operated by his son, Frank G. Viviano, at 6713 Clayton road, Clayton. He had been under treatment for heart disease. He came to the United States in 1901. In 1903 he and three brothers started the macaroni manufacturing firm. Mr. Viviano retired in 1944.

He lived at 1176 Center drive, Hampton Park. Surviving, in addition to the son, are one brother and two sisters.

Freedom Bell Arrives in Berlin, Gets Through Iron Curtain Easily

BERLIN, Oct. 21 (AP)—The giant bronze Freedom Bell, which will ring as a symbol of freedom 100 miles behind the Iron Curtain, arrived in West Berlin today.

It traveled through the Russian zone by night aboard a special rail car, and under guard.

United States train authorities said the 10-ton bell passed without incident at the Helmstedt border and Russian officers did not even inquire the reason for the special guard.

In recent days East Berlin newspapers have attacked the Freedom Bell as the "Death Bell" and said it would toll a knell heralding the future arrival of American "gangster troops."

The Freedom Bell was sponsored by the Committee for the Crusade for Freedom of the National Committee for a Free Europe.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, former United States military governor of Germany, chairman of the crusade committee, will dedicate the bell Tuesday at ceremonies in West Berlin's city hall.

United States High Commissioner John J. McCloy, West Berlin's Mayor Ernst Reuter and other German and American dignitaries will participate in the ceremony.

SYMPHONY EXHIBITS MIDSEASON FORM

Orchestra Opens 71st Season With Composite Tone Never More Lustrous.

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN

The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra began its seventy-first season yesterday afternoon in Kiel Auditorium with a performance that demonstrated its best qualities. For Conductor Vladimir Golschmann it was both an opening concert and a road marker denoting a 20-year association with St. Louis and he celebrated it by exacting a show of form that would have satisfied a maximum midseason expectation. This was accomplished with a personnel that had been changed considerably since last year.

The 10 or more replacements, largely in the string section, were evidently good ones, for the composite tone of the orchestra was never more vital or more lustrous. Moreover, the balance was virtually perfect—and consistently so—at all dynamic levels.

Debut Program Repeated.

Conductor Golschmann underscored the significance of the occasion by directing the same program as at his debut performance in 1931 when he still had the status of guest conductor. Perhaps he can remember the differences between the two interpretations of Beethoven's Seventh Symphony but this reviewer will limit himself to these observations: that yesterday's treatment achieved a largeness of effect by incandescence rather than physical weight; that the first, third and fourth movements were lyrically mellifluous and rhythmically exuberant at the same time; that the allegretto had a deep, pervading poetic gravity with none of the obvious ponderosities of deliberate movement or heavy accentuation; that the final allegro was almost unique in that the prevailing, obsessive rhythmic figure was not slurred even though played at an appropriately fast pace.

The fine, precise playing of the string section in this movement was therefore a notable detail of the performance.

Careful Preparation Evident.

Each number on the program bore the stamp of careful and sensitive preparation. Finish and plasticity, however, were reinforced by a seeming spontaneity together with a surrender to the special characteristics of each composition. Richard Strauss's unbuttoned eloquence in the tone poem "Death and Transfiguration" was given its head. The soaring performance couldn't hide the empty histrionics nor did the latter obscure the fact that the conductor was going all out to make these theatrical effects sound sincere.

Next to the lithe Beethoven symphony, this reviewer enjoyed the cool, simple loveliness of Erik Satie's Gymnopedies the most. Here was a masterly demonstration of economy in means; of small pieces that expressed a whole cultural attitude.

Rewarding Experience.

Conductor Golschmann began the concert with Alexander Siloti's transcription of Vivaldi's Concerto in D Minor, which had both tonal sumptuousness and structural solidity, and closed with a full-bodied proclamation of Wagner's "Die Meistersinger." The transparency of the latter performance was notable; all the polyphonic strands were discernible and still part of the whole texture. In brief, the concert was optimum in every detail; continuously rewarding as a musical experience and persuasive to the point of invoking a certain tolerance for music that the hearer wouldn't list as a favorite.

The program will be repeated tonight.

Cellist Piatigorsky Gives Recital at the Principia.

Gregor Piatigorsky, the distinguished violoncellist, whose most recent appearances in St. Louis have been as soloist with the Symphony Orchestra, gave a recital last night at Howard Hall, the Principia. As in the past his meticulous control and opulent tone were the means of expressing a consistent, though delicately varied romantic grace. In a Theme and Variations by Weber, Three "Fantasy Pieces" by Schumann and even in the stern and pontifical F Major Sonata by Brahms, his wonderful gift for lighting up a phrase by deft timing and inflection, gave each the coloring of lyric poetry.

These blue-ribbon composers, however, yielded precedence to an unknown—an early Eighteenth century English musician named Eccles. The Eccles Sonata in G Minor had something of the warmth and style of Corelli and a particularly affecting adagio. It was all music and the best of the evening.

Piatigorsky finished off his performance with the usual assortment of small pieces. The most gratifying of these was Ravel's "Piece en forme de Habanera" whose sultry quasi-Spanish idiom had both heat and light. A 'cello translation of the Farucca from Manuel de Falla's "Three Cornered Hat" was read with a strong Russian accent that obscured its rhythmic foundation. As a concession to the students in his audience Piatigorsky included in his three encores a "Children's March" by Prokofieff and Saint-Saens' "Swan."

The soloist was accompanied by Ralph Berkowitz, an intelligent, sensitive pianist.

Piatigorsky's playing gave one a feeling of freedom unmarred by the threat of irresponsibility; the velvet glove concealed the iron hand of discipline. The large audience was attentive and responsive.

CROWD AT PALACE FOR CHRISTENING OF PRINCESS ANNE

LONDON, Oct. 21 (UP)—Princess Anne was christened today, as befits the child of a seafaring man, on the anniversary of the Battle of Trafalgar. The Archbishop of York officiated.

Festive crowds which flocked to Trafalgar square for the day's anniversary ceremonies continued down the Mall to Buckingham Palace where the 2-month-old daughter of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh was christened Anne Elizabeth Alice Louise.

The Duke, Prince Philip, a lieutenant commander in the Navy, flew back from Malta to attend the official naming of the baby who is third in line to the throne.

Ahead of her, in the order of succession, are her mother and her 23-month-old brother, Prince Charles.

In Trafalgar square, crowned by the tall monument of Adm. Lord Nelson, signal flags spelled out his historic message to the British fleet—"England expects every man to do his duty."

Extra police were assigned to control the crowds which gathered to cheer the arrival of Princess Elizabeth, her husband and their baby from their town home, Clarence House, two blocks away.

Princess Anne wore a hand-me-down from her great-great-great-grandmother at the ceremony—the royal christening robes of Honiton lace over a satin petticoat first worn by Queen Victoria.

STROMBOLI VOLCANO ERUPTING

MESSINA, Sicily, Oct. 21 (UP)—Stromboli volcano was erupting today. Flaming ashes shot into the sky and molten lava began flowing down the volcano's sides after an earthquake yesterday sent many residents fleeing to neighboring Sicily.

Stromboli is only five miles square and is inhabited largely by fishermen.

Charles H. Compton, who will retire Tuesday on his seventieth birthday as librarian of the St. Louis Public Library, was honored at a testimonial dinner last night by the Adult Education Council of Greater St. Louis which elected him as an honorary life member of its board of directors representing the public. The dinner was given at the Sheraton Hotel.

Compton, who was one of the St. Louis sponsors of the Great Books movement, announced that he was "not going to a chicken farm, to Florida or to California" but intends to remain in St. Louis and devote his time to the development of the Great Books movement.

Henry V. Putzel, one of the organizers of the Adult Education Council, presented Compton with a certificate marking acquisition by the council of the 54-volume "Wisdom of Thirty Centuries" which will be presented to the library in honor of the retiring librarian.

Speakers included Raymond H. Wittcoff, president of the council; Jacob M. Lashly, attorney, and Louis M. Nourse, assistant librarian who will succeed Compton as librarian. Short talks were given by representatives of business, labor and civic groups.

Compton, who became librarian in 1938, came to St. Louis 29 years ago as an assistant to the late Arthur E. Bostwick. He has been named librarian emeritus of the St. Louis Public Library.

Stimson, Called to Cabinet in 1940, Rushed Defenses as War Neared

COLD SPRING HARBOR, N.Y., Oct. 21 (AP)—When Henry L. Stimson, who died of a heart attack here yesterday, resigned as Secretary of War on his seventy-eighth birthday, Sept. 21, 1945, he ended a public career in which he served in the Cabinets of four Presidents.

He headed the War Department for two years of President Taft's administration, and was Secretary of State through President Hoover's administration. In 1940, when France had fallen and Britain was in deadly danger, and when America's situation demanded the utmost military preparedness, President Franklin D. Roosevelt called Stimson, a Republican, to take the War portfolio. At the same time the President named another Republican, the late Frank Knox, as Secretary of the Navy. Stimson's final service was under President Truman.

The Army for whose maintenance and expansion he assumed authority then numbered a little more than 200,000. Under the draft law enacted in September 1940, the Army grew, before Pearl Harbor day in December 1941, to nearly two millions. By September 1942, the four-million figure was reached and expansion was continuing with a goal of 7,500,000.

Sounded Keynote of Defense.

Seven months before Pearl Harbor, in a radio speech May 6, 1941, Secretary Stimson sounded the keynote of American defense through aid to England.

Stimson told how the Axis nations, using the methods of barbarism, had "set back the clock more than five centuries" in Europe, and of the threat to American life inherent in "the so-called new order." He showed the danger of allowing "the present strategic moment" to pass without effective help to England.

Denounced by isolationists in and out of Congress, Stimson stood his ground and demanded repeal of the neutrality act. To West Point graduates in June, 1941, he declared that no compromise with the Axis was possible, and that the world was in two irreconcilable divisions. As the anniversary of the draft act's application approached, he took up the unpopular but necessary advocacy of extension of the one-year service period.

Supervised African Invasion.

The latter part of 1942 was devoted by Secretary Stimson to detailed supervision of the invasion of North Africa.

Following the 1944 departmental inquiry into responsibility for naval and military unreadiness at Pearl Harbor, Secretary Stimson announced that he agreed with some, but not all, of the conclusions of the Army Pearl Harbor board. That body, "though it recommended no disciplinary or other action, concluded that there were several officers in the field and in the War Department who did not perform their duties with the necessary skill or exercise the judgment which was required under the circumstances.

"So far as the commanding general of the Hawaiian department (Short) is concerned," Secretary Stimson said, "I am of the opinion that his errors of judgment were of such a nature as to demand his relief from a command status. This was done on Jan. 1, 1942, and in itself is a serious result for any officer with a long record of excellent service, and conscientious, as I believe Gen. Short to be. In my judgment on the evidence now recorded, it is sufficient action."

The Army and Navy Pearl Harbor findings, issued Sept. 12, 1945, a few days before Stimson's retirement, contained a fuller statement by the Secretary as to Short's failure to use the means at hand for reconnaissance and defense, after he had been duly and fully warned. It said:

"The underlying cause of this error of judgment was Gen. Short's confidence that Japan would not then attack Pearl Harbor. In fairness to him, it must be borne in mind that this belief was shared in by almost everyone, including his superior officers in the War Department in Washington."

D.S.M. From Truman.

On the occasion of the veteran Secretary's retirement, President Truman bestowed on him the Distinguished Service Medal and "the thanks of the nation."

In his direction of the war effort, Stimson was able to draw on battle experience as a field artillery colonel of the American Expeditionary Forces in World War I. At the War Department, he turned down applications for active service from some public men who had been officers in the former war; one of these was the then Senator Harry S. Truman, who applied for a commission and was told by Stimson that he could serve his country better in the Senate.

He was born in New York, the son of Dr. Lewis A. Stimson, a noted surgeon, and was educated in Phillips Andover Academy, Yale University and Harvard Law School. He practiced law in New York, being a partner of Elihu Root, then Secretary of State.

In 1910, backed by Roosevelt, he ran for Governor of New York, but was defeated. President Taft named him as Secretary of War in 1911.

After President Wilson's accession in 1913, Stimson resumed his law practice, which was interrupted in 1917-18 by his war service. In 1927 President Coolidge sent him on a special mission to Nicaragua, where he succeeded in ending civil strife by an agreement that the United States would supervise the election set for 1928. Coolidge appointed him Governor General of the Philippines in December 1927 after the death of Gen. Leonard Wood.

Views on A-Bomb.

After leaving office at the end of the war, Stimson performed two more public acts.

In 1947 he explained in Harper's Magazine his reasons for advising President Truman to drop the first atomic bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

"The face of war is death," he said. "My chief purpose was to end the war in victory with the least possible cost of lives of men in the armies I had helped raise. I believe that no man could have failed to use it and afterward looked his country in the face."

His last public utterance was only a few months ago, when he defended Secretary of State Dean Acheson and his department from Senator Joseph McCarthy's (Republican, Wisconsin) accusations of Communist sympathies.

TRUMAN TRAVELED TO WAKE TO BOOST WAR, MOSCOW SAYS

MOSCOW, Oct. 21 (UP)—The Literary Gazette said today that President Truman is unwilling to meet Soviet leaders to talk peace, but is ready to travel thousands of miles at any time to promote war.

It was the first Soviet comment on President Truman's conference with Gen. Douglas MacArthur on Wake Island a week ago.

"Only two hours proved necessary to concert MacArthur's and Truman's policies, indicating how slightly one's aggressive line diverges from the other bandit's line," the Literary Gazette said.

"Never was military control of the White House demonstrated more clearly than during the Wake Island meeting. . . . It means a long-practiced program of unlimited American imperialist expansion."

Navy Halts Southern Cal. at Its Five-Yard Line in First Period

Midshipmen Underdogs In Battle

So. Calif.—— 0 0
Navy—— 0 14

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 21 (UP) — Southern California, its best effort a tie so far this season, was a two-touchdown favorite today to defeat improved but winless Navy under clear and sunny skies before a crowd of 12,000 at Municipal Stadium here.

It was the first time in history that a Southern California team has played on the East coast.

1st period:

Southern California kicked off into the Navy end zone. Franco ran to the 29, but Zastrow was trapped on his own 22, trying to pass, and Cameron punted. A pass from Gifford netted Southern California 22 yards and put the Trojans on the Navy 34 with a first down.

Southern California reeled off two more first downs, getting as far as the Navy six, but Pucci was trapped behind the line and lost five yards. A lateral from Gifford was batted away by the netted nine yards, and the Mid-Navy line, the ball rolling to the Navy 33, where the Midshipmen took over on downs. Three plays netted Navy nine yards, and the Midshipmen chose to gamble for a first down but failed and Southern California took over on the Navy 42.

One Saved Life of Other in War, "Enemies" at Football.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21 (AP)—Bob Smith is chief publicist for the Southern California football team, but he wouldn't be alive to do it if it weren't for a fellow who is working to beat the Trojans today.

Don Clark, an assistant Navy coach and a former star Trojan lineman, probably saved Smith's life during the war. John Cox, Navy's publicity man, tells about it in the game program:

"The event took place during World War II somewhere near Kaltherherberg, Belgium, where Co. K of the 395th Infantry regiment, Ninety-ninth Division, formed the northern shoulder of the Battle of the Bulge.

"Orders came forth for this particular infantry unit to attack an isolated German battalion located on a knob near Kaltherherberg. Up went a platoon to clear out the Germans, but before they got within range of enemy fire, Smith stepped on a trip wire connected to a hand grenade embedded in the snow.

"The exploding 'booby trap' injured Smith to such an extent that he couldn't walk. Army medics said later that Smith would have bled to death if it hadn't been for the heroic action of the squad sergeant, a fellow named Clark.

"The sergeant picked up Smith and carried him back to the first aid jeep under heavy mortar and artillery fire."

Coach Jeff Cravath of Southern California in commenting on the incident recently declared "Clark saved my life a couple of times, too," when he was playing for the Trojans. He captained the U.S.C. Rose Bowl team in 1948.

There will be an "old home week" flavor in the game. Besides his friendship with Smith and Cravath, Clark will be helping coach Navy against several players who were freshmen when he was playing at Southern Cal.

Besides, two former prep school teammates will be bumping into each other. Halfback Bob Cameron of Navy and Tackle Bob Van Doren of Southern Cal played on the 1948 Admiral Farragut Academy eleven.

Central Scores On Beaumont

By John J. Archibald

PUBLIC SCHOOLS STADIUM, Oct. 21—Central High shocked mighty Beaumont by scoring a touchdown in the opening quarter to take a 6-to-0 lead in the opening game of the Public League doubleheader this afternoon. Southwest and Soldan-Blewett were scheduled to meet in the second game.

Central's Steve Fitzgerald recovered a Beaumont fumble on the Beaumont 38 early in the quarter, and runs of four and six yards by Vince Feigenbutz brought the ball to the 28. Clem Housam then took the ball, tore through right guard for 28 yards and a touchdown. The kick attempt was blocked.

Beaumont's Gerry Koch then took Central's kickoff and sped 95 yards to the Red Wings' goal line, but an offsides penalty caused the play to be called back.

Later Beaumont scored twice to take a 14-6 lead.

Doc Cramer Appointed A White Sox Coach

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 (UP)—Roger (Doc) Cramer, former outfielder for the Philadelphia Athletics, Boston Red Sox and Detroit Tigers, was named a Chicago White Sox coach for 1951, the first to be chosen by the Sox new Manager Paul Richards.

Cramer, 44, ended his active days as a player in May, 1948, while with the Tigers and served out the remainder of that year as a coach. In 1949 he was at Buffalo and the past season has been with Richards at Seattle. His best year was with the Athletics in 1932, when he hit .382.

INGLEWOOD, Calif., Oct. 21 (AP)—The powerful Calumet Stable of horses and its arch jinx, Mrs. Marcella Howard's Noor, reached Hollywood Park yesterday. Top Calumets are Ponder, Two Lea and Ttheory, and Trainer Jimmy Jones said Coaltown is due from the Warren Wright farm in Kentucky next week and be prepared for his comeback.

Citation is "out of business," at least for the year, Jones said.

So Many Big Games In Country Today That None Is Outstanding

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—The college football spotlight swings today to widely scattered gridirons, providing nothing in the way of an A-number-one battle of titans unless it be the tussle between Southern Methodist and Rice at Houston.

From a sectional viewpoint, the biggest noise is expected in the mid-West, where four interesting struggles are carded.

If you could hop into a jet plane and get over to Memorial Stadium, Champaign, Ill., it might well be worth the effort to see the University of Washington Huskies take on Illinois.

Wisconsin, winner of three straight, meets a tough number in Michigan at Ann Arbor, while Ohio State and Minnesota clash at Minneapolis. Once mighty Notre Dame meets a dangerous rival, Indiana, at Bloomington.

At Los Angeles, the meeting between Rose Bowl-minded Stanford and U.C.L.A. tops the Far Western program. California, unbeaten along with Stanford, should make it five in a row by taking Oregon State at Berkeley.

In the south, a capacity record house of some 45,000 is due to sit in at Knoxville to see Alabama and Tennessee have it out. The winner, provided there are no further slipups, probably will land in a major bowl game.

Vandy vs. Florida.

Another top southern contest finds Vanderbilt putting its unsullied record up against Florida at Nashville.

In the East, the Ivy League leaders—Yale and Cornell—have a big date at Ithaca, N.Y., with the unbeaten Big Red favored to hand Yale its first loss.

Pennsylvania meets Columbia at New York in another game that usually produces fireworks.

The Southern Conference lead will be at stake when George Washington plays at Wake Forest, and another interesting league contest finds North Carolina State tangling with Maryland at College Park, Md.

As for the nation's No. 1 and No. 2 teams, Army and Oklahoma, they get a breather. It should be like taking candy from a baby for Army against Harvard at Cambridge. The same goes for Oklahoma versus Kansas State at Norman, Okla.

In the southwest conference, the Rice-SMU night game heads the program. A victory is a necessity for SMU to retain its No. 3 national ranking. Texas, still a power despite its loss to Oklahoma, entertains Arkansas at Austin, while at College Station, Texas Christian plays Texas A. & M.

Kentucky, the No. 4 team, travels to Philadelphia to meet Villanova, while Southern California meets Navy at Baltimore in another intersectional clash.

Miami U. Easy Winner.

In competition last night, the University of Miami easily remained undefeated by swamping Boston University in the Orange Bowl, 34-7, before 40,119 fans. The Hurricanes pulled out their first string soon after the second half began. Little Jack Hackett's passing and Frank Smith's three touchdowns sparked the victors. Boston's lone tally came in the final 30 seconds.

At Boston, Georgetown partly atoned for three defeats this season by coming from behind and beating Boston College, 20-10, while a crowd of 14,548 looked on in Braves Field. The Hoyas clicked for touchdowns in each of the last three quarters. After their final tally, conversion ace Dick Haesler failed on the extra point for the first time in 19 tries.

Playing on a muddy Chattanooga field, the North Texas State Eagles scored on a pass in the closing seconds to defeat Chattanooga, 19-14. Eagle Quarterback Zeke Martin fired a 12-yarder to Jim Stuart for the payoff touchdown.

In another thriller that was decided with four minutes to go, Hardin-Simmons edged University of Houston at Abilene, Tex., 14-13. Bob Blair sped the final 45 yards of a 60-yard drive and Bill Golman made the conversion good to settle the issue.

In other games San Francisco whipped San Jose State, 27-0, and Hawaii thumped College of Idaho, 43-14.

Hot 'n Rough Mohawks Meet Flyers Here Tonight

By Harold Flachsbart

The hottest and roughest team in the American Hockey League will make its first visit of the season to St. Louis tonight, also boasting the goaltender with the best early-season average. Opposing the Flyers at The Arena will be the undefeated Cincinnati Mohawks, the tail-enders turned leaders with four early victories and two ties in their first six starts.

Tending goal for the Mohawks, coached by King Clancy, former hockey great at Toronto, is Emile (Cat) Francis, former Chicago and New Haven net-guardian who has yielded to date but 13 tallies in six games, an average of only 2.16 a contest.

Johnny Mitchell, the peppery Flyer coach, stopped off on the way home from Cleveland this week to scout Cincinnati at Indianapolis Thursday, and he got quite an eyeful as the Mohawks shut out the Calder Cup champions, 1 to 0. "It's a fine, well-balanced club," said Mitchell of Cincinnati, "handles the puck well and will be very tough to beat."

Rugged Club.

Cincinnati always was on the rugged side, leading the league in penalties, etc., but this fall the men of Clancy have the finesse to go with the tight checking. Last in the Western standings in 1949-50, Cincinnati never has won a game in St. Louis, but the Flyers happened to meet the Hawks most frequently early in the season, when they weren't so tough.

Five players on loan from the New York Rangers — some of them former teammates of New Flyers Paul Lamirande, Sherm White and Steve Hyrmnak—have helped build Cincy into an early-season power. Besides Goalie Francis, Forwards Jack Gordon, Fern Perrault, Jean Paul Denis and hard-hitting defenseman Jack Evans, a 150-minute penalty server last winter, have contributed greatly to Cincinnati's showing, as has Ralph Nattrass, purchased from Chicago.

Win, Lose, Draw.

The Flyers, with a 1-1-1 record including a draw with Cleveland, victory (4-1) over Indianapolis and 3-1 setback at the hands of the Barons, are in good physical shape. Eddie Olson, who has not played since the club returned from its North Bay (Ont.) training camp, will be ready for limited service, thus boosting a forward corps that has managed only nine goals in three league games. Of course, the club's defense has been more than satisfactory. Goalie Ralph Almas has been tagged for only eight scores in 180 minutes.

A return game is scheduled between the same clubs at Cincinnati tomorrow night. The Flyers have another home game scheduled next Wednesday against Pittsburgh. Game time for all Arena play is 8:15.

95,000 See Wisconsin and Michigan Play

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 21 (UP)—Twice-beaten Michigan opened its quest of a fourth Big 10 title today against undefeated Wisconsin before a sun-kissed crowd of 95,000.

Slinging Chuck Ortmann was Michigan's hope to crack the rugged Badger defense and keep the Wolverines' title hopes alive.

Michigan kicked to Wisconsin's right halfback Bill Hutchinson, who was brought down on his own 28. Wisconsin rammed to a first down. Quarterback Bob Petruska passed to End Gene Felker for another first down on the 49. A 20-yard pass by Petruska to Hutchinson put Wisconsin on Michigan's 31. With Petruska passing and Roy Burks running, Wisconsin moved to Michigan's 22, where Michigan took over on downs.

Montreal to See Famechon.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Ray Famechon, French holder of the European featherweight championship, will oppose Richie (Kid) Howard of Halifax, N. S., in a 10-round bout at Montreal, Oct. 30.

Bears Out to Break 3-Game Losing Streak in Homecoming Game Today

By Robert Morrison

A homecoming crowd gathered at Washington University's Francis Field today to see the Bears try to avoid a fourth defeat when they play Western Michigan College.

If the Bears, who have won only one game in four, are defeated, it will be the first time in four postwar seasons that they will have lost more than three games in a campaign. Western Michigan is favored to win.

In the stands is expected to be a crowd of 7000, or perhaps 8000 if the weather is favorable. The attendance probably will approach the largest crowd since "just short of 10,000" saw the Washington homecoming contest with Western Michigan two years ago, Athletic Director Blair Gullion said.

Old grads, students and fans, who have become more or less accustomed to the deflated football program at Washington, will be disappointed if a defeat or a tie for the Bears makes a new low in season performance.

Good Record in 1949.

A year ago Coach Irv Uteritz directed the Bears of '49 to a seven won, two lost record. In the two prior seasons, Coach Weeb Ewbank produced 5-3 (1947) and 9-1 (1948) records.

Now handicapping the Bears is the loss by injury of Bud Wiederholdt, halfback who scored the only touchdown in a 12-0 upset gained by the Bears over Western Michigan at Kalamazoo last year, Don Belt kicked two field goals for the other six points.

The Washington offense will suffer accordingly with the absence of the second-best ground gainer. And the Bear defense, which has yielded a 30-point a game scoring average by opponents this year, has yet to prove itself.

Western Michigan, which defeated Washington by 14-6 and 18-6 in the first two games of their post-war series, has won three of four games this fall. It lost to Miami U. of Ohio last week, 35-0, after having won from Nortern Illinois (DeKalb), 40-15, Central Michigan, 21-13, and Toledo, 54-19.

In the Bear record are a 24-7 victory over Illinois Wesleyan and defeats by Missouri Mines, 34-19, Western Reserve, 24-20, and Memphis State, 54-0.

After today the Bears will have two more home games — against University of Louisville, Nov. 4, and Southeast Missouri State (Cape Girardeau), Nov. 18.

High School Boy Dies Of Football Injuries

JERSEY CITY, N.J., Oct. 21 (AP)—Aaron Nakashian, 17-year-old Nutley high school senior injured in football practice a month ago, died last night at Jersey City Medical Center.

The youth broke his neck while making a tackle in a pre-season practice session. He had been paralyzed from the neck down.

First hospitalized at St. Mary's Hospital, Passaic, he was later removed to the medical center here. Death was listed as due to a cardiac condition.

Indiana Seeks First Win Over Irish Since 1912

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 21 (AP)—Indiana University's aerial circus, already responsible for two new Big Ten records this season, today was conceded its best chance since 1912 to beat Notre Dame's football Irish today.

Indiana's 12-0 victory over the Irish 38 years ago was the last of four it has won in the 23-game series.

With neither team a consistent gainer by rushing this year, the contest shapes up as a passing duel between Notre Dame's veteran Bob Williams and Indiana's sophomore Lou D'Achille.

D'Achille, in his first Western Conference game against Iowa, threw a pass to Bobby Robertson good for 91 yards and a long-distance scoring record. He threw 38 passes, a record total, against Ohio State, and tied the record of 20 completions.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 21 (AP)—The high school football team of Beaver Falls, Pa., had a superb passing combination two years ago in Quarterback Lou D'Achille and End Jim Mutscheller.

Today they'll be on the same field again and D'Achille hopes Mutscheller doesn't catch a one of his pitches.

D'Achille now is Indiana University's sophomore star. Mutscheller is Notre Dame's best receiver.

Electronic Device Said To Point Out the Ball Carrier on Television

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP)—A new electronic device to point out the ball carrier during televised football games was described yesterday by the General Electric Company.

Because of complicated plays in which two or more backs frequently handle the ball, G. E. noted that sometimes it is difficult for television fans to follow the play.

With the "electronic pointer," it was said a commentator could superimpose a black or white pointer at any spot on the viewers' television screen

Pleasant Football Weather Likely Today

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 (AP)—Football fans for the most part will enjoy top coat weather at major games today. They can leave their blankets at home.

The weather man forecasts clear, fairly warm weather for the Midwest, Mid-Atlantic and New England states with temperatures ranging from 60-70 degrees.

Temperatures of 70-80 are expected for the Southern Plains region, covering Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and West Texas. The mercury may climb as high as 90 in the Southwest, through parts of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona. No rain is sighted in any of this region.

Cloudiness and rain are predicted for the eastern Gulf states through southern Alabama, Florida and Georgia.

The Great Lakes region, where Wisconsin invades Michigan and Ohio State faces Minnesota in important Western Conference games — the weatherman sees cloudy, cool weather with temperatures ranging in the 50s.

Some rain may fall on the Stanford at U.C.L.A., and Oregon State at California engagements. Showers in the mountain areas on the Western Coast are forecast and they may move down before the kickoffs.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21 (AP)—Pretty soon there just won't be any privacy left for football players with this television business.

Now the TV cameras are going to invade the dressing rooms.

That's the program announced by sponsors of the Los Angeles Ram-Baltimore Colt game here tomorrow at the Coliseum. The cameras will peer into the locker recesses before the game.

Careful there.

St. Louis U. High Makes It 19 in Row After Scare

McKinley Ties With Cleveland

By JOHN J. ARCHIBALD

A DeAndreis High football team that has come a long way in a little over a year under the direction of Coach George Hasser hadn't progressed quite far enough to stop the unbeaten Prep League string of St. Louis U. High, and the Junior Bills won, 6-0, at the Walsh Stadium race track-football field last night. It was the nineteenth consecutive Prep triumph for St. Louis U. High.

At Public Schools Stadium, another vastly improved team, McKinley, came up with a 6-6 Public League tie of defending champion Cleveland. Louis Held scored for the Dutchmen in the opening quarter, and Bill Cartlidge tied it up for McKinley in the second period. McKinley now has a league record of one victory and a tie, while Cleveland had lost two circuit matches without a victory going into last night's contest.

Pass Puts St. Louis U. High Over.

More than 4000 persons saw St. Louis Jack Fitzwilliam pull in a pass from Bob Brangle standing behind the 28, and with two DeAndreis defensemen on his heels, cross into the concrete-like track that formed large sections of the end and 10-yard zones. Fitzwilliam caught the ball on the seven, early in the second quarter.

DeAndreis gave the Junior Bills their worst scare in the first quarter, when John Androlewicz broke through the St. Louis line, eluded the safety man, and appeared headed for a touchdown. A frantic grab by St. Louis's last defenseman had thrown Androlewicz off balance, however, and he stumbled on the Junior Bills' 31.

Androlewicz went to the 27 on the next play, and Ray Gettemeyer moved to the 25, but there the DeAndreis attack stalled. St. Louis then took over, and began the drive that resulted in the game's only score in the next quarter.

In the third period, in which Coach C. J. Taylor's Little Bills outgained their opponents, 127 yards to 22, Bob Brangle climaxed a 77-yard push, by going over from the eight. The play was called back because St. Louis was offsides, however, and neither team made a serious threat thereafter.

In another Prep League game, St. Mary's handed C.B.C. its fourth and most severe defeat in five games, 26 to 0. Val Pelizzaro scored twice for St. Mary's, and Floyd Schoendienst and Meyer once each.

Normandy drubbed Brentwood, 25 to 7, in the only Suburban League match. University City achieved its fifth victory in six outings by nipping Quincy, 9 to 6, in the Illinois community. The Indians' points were scored on a safety, a touchdown from the two by Don Sauer, and Sauer's conversion.

St. Joseph defeated Chaminade, 32 to 12, in a Catholic League contest.

East St. Louis and Wood River went into a tie for first in the Southwestern Illinois Conference, by achieving their second victories without a loss. East St. Louis dumped Alton, 20 to 0, and Wood River nipped Granite City, 26 to 24.

Basket Leagues Agree to End Player Raids

ANDERSON, Ind., Oct. 21 (INS)—An agreement to end player raids was announced jointly yesterday by officials of two large professional basketball leagues.

Members of the two organizations, however, must ratify the agreement which may be the first step toward ending the fueding between the newly organized National Basketball League and the National Basketball Association.

A conference here was attended by Presidents Maurice Podoloff of the N.B.A. and Magnus Brinkman of the N.P.L.B.

The tentative agreement would freeze all players in their contracts as of Oct. 19 and makes no provision for sales between the two leagues.

The agreement also permits exhibition games.

Clemson College Player Killed on Motorcycle

ROCKY MOUNT, Va., Oct. 21 (AP)—A Clemson College football player was killed and a teammate seriously injured yesterday when the motorcycle they were riding collided with an automobile just north of here.

Killed instantly in the collision was Rinaldo Elmo Villardi, about 19, whose home address was listed as 108 Williams street, Plainfield, Conn. Injured was Pooley Hubert Jr., son of the former Virginia Military Institute football coach, Pooley Hubert, who now is a Lexington (Va.) business man.

Two Negroes in the automobile which struck the motorcycle were not hurt.

Police said the accident occurred when the northbound motorcycle slid out of control on a sharp curve on United States Route 220 about a mile north of here. The road was slippery from drizzling rain which fell most of the day. The motorcycle, police said, crashed into the Dixon car which had pulled off the highway to a shoulder of the road. They said they believed Villardi was driving the motorcycle. James Dixon was identified as the driver of the car.

Young Hubert was taken to a Roanoke hospital with a fractured vertebra. Hospital attendants said his condition was "fair" although the complete extent of his injuries had not been determined.

Tide Continues To Rise Against Blaik Appraisal

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21 (AP)—As a result of his uncomplimentary evaluation of professional football, Earl (Red) Blaik, head coach at Army, today faced the unhappy prospect of having to prove it.

The Colonel may now include among his dissenters about every pro coach in the country; his No. 1 pupil at Army, Glenn Davis; pro players, some college coaches, an assortment of plain citizens and the American Legion.

If Blaik's simon pures are better than the pros, a Legion group said here yesterday, let him prove it on the gridiron.

And the Tide Rises.

When the Colonel wrote in a national magazins (Collier's) that the pros play "a showman's game and not football," the effect was tantamount to what happens when you spit tobacco juice on an ant hill.

Bring your Army team out here, challenged Harry Myers, director of events for the Legion's Los Angeles County Council. Let the Cadets meet "the third best team in the National Football League" in a December charity contest.

"I am sure the country will be interested in your response," wrote Myers, who went to high school with Blaik in Dayton, O. Myers went on to say that thousands of people "who know professional football to be superior to college football" will deeply resent Blaik's statements.

Davis, Blaik's most famous performer at West Point, submitted his resentment politely. "I have a sincere respect for Colonel Blaik," said the onetime Mr. Outside, now starring for the Los Angeles Rams. "However, I have found pro football to be a much more demanding sport than the college game."

Blaik's other critics weren't so polite. In fact, some were downright rude, notably Joe Stydahar, head coach of the Rams. Said he:

"To point out a few absurdities, Blaik says a 190-pound lineman fresh from college can do everything better than a 250-pound pro. That's like saying an amateur lightweight could whip Joe Louis in his prime.

"Were we able to drop the Eagles and Bears from our schedule when we found them too tough—as Blaik dropped Notre Dame—we might run up a 23-game unbeaten streak, too."

George Halas, under whom Stydahar played with the Chicago Bears, merely said, "I didn't know Blaik was that stupid."

Otis Douglas, ex-pro player now coaching at the University of Arkansas, remarked: "Pro teams are better equipped with specialists. And there's a big difference in the defensive backfield and offensive line play, with the pros doing each better."

Atalanta Likely Betting Choice In Demoiselle

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — The Empire City-at-Jamaica meeting's first stakes event was on tap today with nine juvenile fillies entered in the $25,000 added Demoiselle, at a mile and a sixteenth.

Mrs. Dodge Sloane, whose Brookmeade Stable is enjoying one of the most successful seasons in its history, had the likely favorite in Atalanta, a fast stepping chestnut daughter of the famed Count Fleet.

The odds makers figured her no better than a 2 to 1 proposition, with the fact in mind that she has captured three stakes, including Belmont Park's rich Matron.

The Woodvale Farm's Boots All was expected to offer stout contention. The Our Boots filly had started only twice, running second in her debut, then winning impressively. Also well regarded was the Belair stud entry of Princess Rose and Vulcania.

The other entrants were D. A. Headley's Aunt Jinny, Clairborne Farm's Escondida, Foxcatcher Farm's Rose Fern, Greentree Stable's Toto and Woolford Farm's Self Assurance.

With nine starters, the race would gross $48,875 and net the winner $30,700.

Spagnolo Fails To Win Round in Loss to La Starza

By Jack Cuddy

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (UP) — Heavyweights Roland LaStarza and Duilio Spagnolo may be awarded a cheese plaque for having attained the height of athletic futility in their stinkeroo of a fight at St. Nicholas Arena last night.

Stocky, black-haired LaStarza—New York's most highly touted young heavy contender—won a "shut-out" 10-round decision over the lanky, dark-haired and completely futile clutcher from Italy. But Roland lost prestige in victory.

Spagnolo, claimant of the New England heavyweight championship since taking up residence at Dorchester, Mass., was so astoundingly ineffectual that not one of the three ring officials gave him a single round. That may be a main-event record for New York rings.

LaStarza, 23 and gunning for a shot at Ezzard Charles's crown, was roundly booed because of his inability to finish or even floor his inept, 26-year-old opponent. He did gash Duilio's left brow and give him a bloody nose in the fourth round. He staggered Spagnolo four times and reddened his left kidney with right hooks.

The fight was so dull that the 1795 fans began booing as early as the fourth round, and some began walking out in the eighth. Those fans who were exposed to the fistic farce at close quarters were less fortunate than the millions who had the benefit of distance on television.

LaStarza, a 4-1 favorite registered his forty-first victory in 42 professional bouts. The former City College football player lost only to Rocky Marciano of Brockton, Mass. He weighed 190½ pounds, Spagnolo 184.

The gross gate was only $4243, but that was at least "four grand" too much.

San Antonio Missions' President Resigns

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 21 (AP)—Robert S. Tarleton resigned yesterday as president of the San Antonio Missions of the Texas Baseball League.

Tarleton said he was leaving the Missions "with the greatest reluctance" and confirmed St. Louis President Bill De Witt's statement that the parting with the Browns was "on the friendliest of terms and with the deepest regret." The Missions are Texas League and Dixie champions.

The veteran baseball man who took over the job last spring said the delicate health of his wife was the sole cause of his decision. Mrs. Tarleton wishes to return to the family home at Galveston.

DeWitt said a successor would be announced probably Sunday.

The Missions also will have a new field manager next season. Don Heffner has said repeatedly he is quitting baseball for good to go into the pottery business in California.

800 'HARD TO FILL' JOBS OPEN, STATE OFFICE REPORTS

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 21—More than 800 jobs in professional, skilled and semi-skilled and clerical fields are open now in Missouri and there are no qualified applicants to take them, the State Division of Employment Security reported yesterday.

Most of these jobs are in the metropolitan areas of St. Louis and Kansas City, Director C. A. Ricker said. Among the openings listed by the division as "hard to fill" are employment opportunities for engineers, machinists, tool and die makers, bookkeepers, bricklayers, nurses, draftsmen, x-ray and medical technicians, pressmen, general office clerks and cabinetmakers.

One request from a group of cotton planters in southeast Missouri was for 1600 workers to aid in picking cotton.

The division's inventory of job openings reported skilled workers in production and construction fields were most urgently needed. The unskilled labor supply was said to be adequate in all areas of the state.

UTAH SUPREME COURT FREES 20 OF POLYGAMY CONSPIRACY

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 21 (AP)—Twenty persons convicted in a conspiracy charge involving practice of polygamy were free today.

The Utah Supreme Court reversed their convictions yesterday, holding the state statute under which their case originated in 1944 is indefinite and has no limitations.

The men in the case were accused of living with 55 women not their legal wives.

The statute terms it a criminal offense for two or more persons to conspire "to commit any act . . . injurious . . . to public morals." The State Supreme Court decision came after the United States Supreme Court had ruled in 1948 that the statute was unconstitutional unless limitations were added.

2 COUNTY HOSPITAL DOCTORS DEFERRED 6 MONTHS BY ARMY

Dr. Elmer J. Schewe and Dr. S. L. Jukowsky, St. Louis County Hospital resident physicians who were ordered to active duty with the Army two weeks ago, have been granted deferments of six months, Dr. Curtis H. Lohr, superintendent of the hospital, said yesterday.

Both men obtained their medical educations under the Armed Forces training program during World War II and, as reservists, were scheduled to report for duty at Fort Sam Houston at San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 29.

Dr. Lohr vigorously urged Army officials in Washington to defer the two men because, he said, military demands for physicians were going to work a hardship on the hospital. He pointed out that eight of the 14 resident doctors there were subject to military call as reservists or through the draft of doctors initiated last Monday.

Flashes of Life

By the Associated Press.

Noses in Duplicate.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Mrs. Lena Swigert, Hotel Leland cashier, waited on E. J. Moses of Urbana, Ill., when Moses paid his bill and checked out. Then a Roanoke (Va.) man stepped to the window to check out, and Mrs. Swigert told him, "You're the second E. J. Moses at this window in two minutes."

E. J. Moses of Roanoke said, "I've traveled all over the United States and never met another E. J. Moses. Where is he?" But E. J. Moses of Urbana had gone.

Surprise for the Boss.

HATTIESBURG, Miss.—Marine Reservist Carl Edwards telephoned his boss in Jackson to report he was called to active duty.

"I can't spare you," came the reply from W. H. Monie of Jackson, manager of a food sales firm.

"I'll go to the Marine recruiting office in the postoffice building and see if I can get you deferred," he added. Monie went to the postoffice, but first picked up mail from his box.

The first letter announced that as an Army reserve lieutenant, Monie would report for duty Oct. 25.

Annual Race.

BURLINGAME, Calif.—A year ago Mrs. Nancy Ledesma, 17 years old of south San Francisco raced the stork to a hospital in a taxicab.

Despite a collision with another car she won the race and gave birth to her third child. Friday she was in another such race—same reason — same taxicab driver.

Mrs. Ledesma did not win the race. Her fourth child, a boy, was born in the taxicab, en route. The mother and child were doing fine but the taxicab driver was a nervous wreck.

Jackie Robinson Says He Has No Stomach For Barnstorming

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 21 (AP)—Jackie Robinson's Negro All-Star baseball team swamped a Jackson All-Star aggregation 11-1 in an exhibition game here yesterday.

After the game Robinson told newsmen he is making his last post-season barnstorming tour. The traveling keeps his stomach upset, he said.

Wins Soccer Game.

St. Mary of Bridgeton scored a 4-0 victory over Thomas Jefferson School in a soccer game played yesterday on the loser's field.

Night Soccer in Russia.

MOSCOW, Oct. 21 (AP)—Nighttime soccer in Soviet Russia was inaugurated here last night under electric arc lights at Dynamo Stadium. The Minsk Dynamo team beat the Novosibirsk Officers Club, 2 to 1.

STEELMAN HINTS AT MORE CURBS ON TIME BUYING

Also Says Other Types of Controls 'May Become Necessary' — Some Steel Limited.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman feels that still tighter curbs on installment buying may be imposed by the Government to combat inflation.

Moreover, he told the Mount Holyoke Alumnae Association last night, that other types of controls "may become necessary."

Steelman's hint at new restrictions came at the end of a day during which:

1. The National Production Authority (A) restricted rubber companies in their use of materials and (B) set aside for the defense program the entire production of stainless steel containing columbium.

2. The Department of Commerce ordered a bar on all exports of molasses, a principal source of industrial alcohol.

Limits Rubber for Tires.

The rubber order limits tire manufacturers and other users to 75 per cent of the amount of natural rubber they consumed in the year ended June 30. It sets consumption of all rubber, including synthetic, at 84 per cent of the base year's use.

Officials said this would give manufacturers about the same amount of rubber they were getting before the Korean war. They renewed assurances that no tire shortage is in sight.

The action on molasses fits into the rubber picture since alcohol is used in great quantities by the synthetic rubber plants which the Government is pressing back into service.

The Government has announced it will start buying alcohol from whisky distillers in December. The Distilled Sprits Institute announced last night it has offered to deliver 10,000,000 gallons over the next two months.

Stainless Steel Uses.

Stainless steel containing columbium, a corrosion-resistant alloy, is used in the manufacture of jet aircraft engines, surgical instruments and chemical equipment.

Except for his reference to installment buying, Steelman made no specific mention of probable new control moves. But in broad terms he re-echoed the Administration's warnings that the American people face a time of sacrifice "for years to come."

He checked this back to what he called Russia's postwar embarkment "upon a course designed to divide the nations of the world."

Steelman said the vast mobilization program to rearm America would mean that millions of new workers will be needed, and he added: "Already in some areas there is a shortage of trained workers."

U.S. ADMITS SWEDE WHO TRIED TO HEAD OFF WORLD WAR II

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (UP)—The State Department has given a clean bill of political health to Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren, who once tried to head off World War II by appealing to Hermann Goering.

The department has informed the Stockholm embassy that the new subversive control law—which denies visas to Nazis, Fascists and Communists—does not apply to Wenner-Gren.

Wenner-Gren, largely on the basis of his prewar contacts with Goering, was labeled pro-Nazi in the early war years, and he was blacklisted from entering the United States until after the war. He repeatedly denied the charge and quoted from prewar writings to show that he opposed Nazi doctrines.

SUIT FILED TO BAR BUILDING OF OVERLAND DRIVE-IN MOVIE

A suit to enjoin construction of a $200,000 drive-in theater by the St. Louis Amusement Co. on a 10-acre tract on Page avenue between Woodson and Walton roads, Overland, was filed in Circuit Court at Clayton yesterday by 11 property owners living nearby.

The petition, which named the company and Mayor Norman A. Myers and Building Commissioner Carl E. Etz of Overland as defendants, asked that an Overland ordinance adopted last June 27 rezoning the tract to an industrial classification, be declared void and that Etz be barred from issuing a building permit.

Alleging that the theater would be a nuisance because of noise, dust, fumes and artificial lighting, and that property values would be adversely affected, the petition pointed out that the rezoning proposal had been defeated twice after public hearings and that the June 27 board meeting was a special closed session, not preceded by a public hearing on the question.

STASSEN SAYS IN LETTER HE HOPES CURTIS WILL WIN

Thomas B. Curtis, Republican candidate for Congress in the Twelfth District, yesterday received a letter from former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, a Republican presidential aspirant, expressing the hope that Curtis will be elected Nov. 7.

"Your contest is one of the key elections in the nation, and I trust the people will respond with a resounding victory for you," Stassen wrote the candidate.

Curtis, who was eastern Missouri campaign manager for United States Senator Robert A. Taft when the Ohio Senator sought the 1948 Republican presidential nomination, said Stassen's letter answers statements made in the primary that Stassen supporters were opposed to his candidacy.

BETTER EXPORT TRADE GIVES WHEAT LIFT

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 (AP)—Grains moved up for moderate gains in a fairly brisk Saturday trade today. Only oats were inclined to lag.

The market opened higher and maintained its advance throughout the session, although there was one period when gains were shaved on week-end evening up transactions.

Export sales helped wheat. Lack of any important hedging pressure was a factor in the soybean steadiness. More warm weather in the mid-west was considered favorable for drying out the corn crop, making more of it eligible for storing on farms under the Government loan.

Mexico overnight bought 1,167,000 bushels of hard wheat for shipment out of Gulf of Mexico ports this month and next. Holland took 5000 tons of spring wheat for shipment from Albany, New York, and 2000 tons of hard wheat for shipment from Gulf of Mexico ports, both in November.

The Government's move to divert some distilled spirits production this year into the synthetic rubber program was another bullish price item. Grains are used in making industrial alcohol. However, molasses also is used and the Government yesterday barred all exports of molasses.

RETIREMENT FUND BUYS WEST COAST RADIO NETWORK

Don Lee System Sold for $12,320,000 to General Tire Employes' Pension Setup.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21 (UP)—An employes' retirement fund, acting through the First National Bank of Akron, O., bought the Don Lee radio and television network yesterday on a bid of $12,320,000.

The bank entered the bid on behalf of the retirement plan of salaried employes of the General Tire & Rubber Co., which also owns the Yankee network in the East.

For its high bid, made in court after the Hoffman Radio Corp. apparently had won the rich properties, the retirement fund became the owners of a $3,000,000 studio in Hollywood, radio stations KHJ, Los Angeles; KFRC, San Francisco; KDB, Santa Barbara; KGB, San Diego; television station KTSL, Los Angeles, and a TV [illegible]on for San Francisco, as well as the Don Lee Broadcasting S[illegible] which serves 53 stations in the West.

TV Station Going to C.B.S.

Several hours later, Thomas O'Neil, vice president of General Tire, and Howard Meighan, vice president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, issued a joint announcement saying that the retirement fund had agreed to sell the television station to C.B.S., subject to FCC approval.

Also involved in the deal is 1500-foot Mount Lee in Hollywood, and the luxurious home of the late Thomas S. Lee, who committed suicide by jumping out of a 12-story office building last January.

The properties had been inherited by Lee from his father, the late Don Lee, pioneer California auto dealer and founder of the network. In addition to the radio interest and other assets, the property sold included 19 per cent of the stock of the Mutual network, with which the Don Lee system was affiliated.

Higher Bid Entered.

Hoffman had entered a bid of $11,200,000 and originally was high bidder on the property, but probate law permits the courts to accept a bid of 10 per cent higher than that received by the public administrator in offering the properties for sale.

When Superior Judge Newcomb Condee asked in court if there were any higher bids than the Hoffman offer, Attorney Elliott H. Pentz, acting for the bank, entered the bid of $12,320,000. Hoffman's attorney then asked for a recess. When court reconvened, the radio firm failed to make another bid.

The properties were put up for sale by the public administrator to settle the estate of Thomas Lee.

FREED BY JURY THURSDAY, EX-CONVICT ARRESTED AGAIN

William H. Wilber, burglar who has spent most of his adult life in prison, was back in the holdover today after escaping a possible five-year sentence Thursday.

Wilber, so relieved when a jury freed him on a burglary charge Thursday that he leaped up and shouted to the jurors, "God bless you all," was picked up early today by Patrolman Harold Mitchell of the Carr Street district.

Mitchell noticed that Wilber was carrying a brand new automobile jack as he walked in the 1300 block of Lucas avenue at 1:30 o'clock in the morning. Wilber had no automobile and could give Mitchell no convincing explanation of how he happened to have the tool.

Illinois Veteran With Leukemia Gets Wish---Taste of Bing Cherries

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

BILL KATANEC sees a wish fulfilled as a nurse at Hines Veterans' Hospital presents the leukemia patient with a bowl of cherries from a supply sent in response to an appeal. IRVING GLASSMAN, a former fellow patient who acted in Katanec's behalf, looks on.

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch. Copyright, 1950.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21—Bill Katanec, 33-year-old veteran believed to be incurably ill with leukemia, a relatively rare blood disease, got his only wish Thursday night. He wanted once again to taste some fresh ripe Bing cherries, and he did, although the fruit is out of season everywhere in the world just now.

When the doctors at Hines Veterans Hospital near Chicago shook their heads over Bill, a former fellow patient in the blood ward, Irving Glassman, told the Chicago Daily News of Bill's last wish. The newspaper, through its correspondents and other newspapers sent out a world-wide appeal.

The cherries that arrived were not tree-fresh, but "home-frozen" fresh. They were firm, sweet and ripe. Bill believed they were fresh—just what he had been longing for. He was not told the difference.

Some of the cherries came from T. W. Tidball, an ex-Marine, and a group of his fellow townsmen in Penticton, British Columbia. Others came from a woman orchard owner in Traverse City, Mich.

"Gee! where did you get them?" he asked hoarsely.

"You said you wanted cherries. Here they are," said Glassman.

Bill set to work feebly on the bowl of dark, gleaming cherries. Lifting a cherry is quite an effort. Once a brawny, 235-pound football player, Bill is now down to 100 pounds.

Other patients in the blood ward drifted into the room to join in the cherry party. There wasn't much gaiety. After a while they drifted away and Katanec, wearied by his efforts, escaped from pain into sleep.

Nearly 30 pounds of cherries remained. These were taken to Katanec's home in North Riverside, Ill., where his wife, Alice, 33, lives with their two daughters, Sharon, 8, and Karen, 3.

"I'll keep them in the refrigerator," she said, "so I can take them to the hospital when I go. I know he'll enjoy them, he can eat so little else."

K.C. GAMBLER PLEADS GUILTY OF TAX EVASION

Samuel C. Hayden Fired as Prosecutor's Aid When Disclosed as Club Partner.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 21—Samuel C. Hayden, former assistant prosecuting attorney of Jackson county and a partner in the biggest gambling establishment here, pleaded guilty yesterday of evading federal income taxes. He will be sentenced Nov. 3.

United States District Judge Albert L. Reeves refused to accept a plea of no contest, after which Hayden changed his plea to guilty.

Hayden, indicted last May 22, admitted evading a tax payment of $1023 for 1948.

He was a partner in Town Recreation, described by the special United States grand jury as the largest gambling operation here. His income tax return for 1948 listed net income of $4500 on which he paid a tax of $370, whereas his true income was $9569 on which a tax of $1393 was payable, the indictment stated.

Hayden was fired by Prosecuting Attorney Henry H. Fox Jr. after Hayden's connection with Town Recreation was made public. In the eight months the gambling establishment was in business its take was estimated at about $200,000. Among the 15 partners, besides Hayden, was the murdered Charles Gargotta.

Suit for an accounting and an order restraining Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kleiman, officers of the Missouri Restaurant and Tavern Supply Co., 206 S. Fourth street, from withdrawing funds from the company, was filed yesterday in circuit court.

The suit was filed by Morris Kofsky, vice president and a minority stockholder, and alleges that Mr. and Mrs. Kleiman, president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, and majority stockholders, had been paying themselves excessive salaries, making loans to the company at high rates of interest and drawing large expense account, jeopardizing the company's solvency.

Kofsky lives at 7329A Dartmouth avenue, University City; the Kleimans live at 6332 North Rosebury avenue, Clayton. Judge Waldo Mayfield set Thursday for a hearing on the petition.

PROBABLY SAVED JOHN L. LEWIS FROM JAIL, TAFT SAYS

ATHENS, O., Oct. 21 (AP) — Senator Robert A. Taft (Rep.), Ohio, said yesterday he probably saved John L. Lewis from "being marched off to a concentration camp in 1946."

Taft referred to the time President Truman wanted Congress to pass legislation empowering him to draft miners and railroad workers during a strike. Lewis is president of the United Mine Workers Union.

Taft made the statement on a two-day re-election tour of southeastern Ohio, where much of Ohio's soft coal is mined.

He said in a speech from the Athens county courthouse steps: "If Congress had carried out the President's request, he (Truman) might have drafted John L. Lewis and other labor leaders and marched them off to a concentration camp." Taft said he objected to the proposed legislation and that after Congress had "cooled off" the program was rejected.

41 SCHOOLS RECEIVE PLAQUES FOR WINNING CLEAN-UP DRIVES

Plaques were awarded to 41 public and parochial schools, which won Clean-Up, Paint-Up campaigns during the past seven years, at ceremonies in the Opera House at Kiel Auditorium last night. The awards were not made during the years they were won because of metal shortages.

The campaigns are conducted annually by the school children of the city in co-operation with the Chamber of Commerce, school and city officials and business men's organizations. William Schumacher, president of the St. Louis Board of Education and chairman of the 1950 campaign, said presentation of the awards was made at this time "to keep St. Louisans Clean-Up conscious on a year-round basis."

The award ceremonies were followed by an entertainment program, including singing, dancing and novelty band acts.

A loving cup was presented at the banquet to W. H. J. (Pop) Beckett, former football coach and athletic director of the school for 25 years, by Arthur L. Washington, present coach and athletic director. Principal speaker was Lucian P. Garrett, principal of Lincoln School and a Sumner alumnus, while G. D. Brantley, Sumner principal, was toastmaster.

The three living members of the football team of 1902 were introduced, as were stars from teams of 1905 and 1910 as well as later years. The banquet was the first of a series of monthly events to be scheduled through the current semester in observance of the anniversary. The traditional football game with Lincoln High School of East St. Louis will be played tonight at Public High Schools Stadium.

GAMBLING IN LA SALLE CLOSED AFTER BOAST

Mayor Acts Following Operator's Senate Testimony That He's Protected.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LA SALLE, Ill., Oct. 21—The gambling establishments of Thomas J. Cawley, who told the Senate Crime Investigating Committee that city officials do not interfere with his operations, were closed yesterday by Mayor Matt Bildhauer and Police Chief Edward Kasprowicz.

They closed all LaSalle gambling, including Cawley's handbook, crap games, punchboard, "lucky bowls" and Peoria Baseball Pool. The mayor and police chief said gambling in 85 establishments had been halted, including punchboards in taverns and slot machines in six private clubs.

Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem.), Tennessee, chairman of the crime committee, said in Chicago Wednesday that Cawley testified he "plays both sides of the fence politically" and had "no trouble from any law enforcement people." Cawley testified the "Mayor of LaSalle" would stop any interference with Cawley's operations. Kefauver said Cawley testified the Mayor, sheriff and police chief "all let me go," adding that LaSalle was "wide open."

Cawley, his two sisters and a brother who help him were ordered to appear next Tuesday at the State Records Division in Springfield to show cause why their liquor licenses should not be revoked.

Third place in this event was won by Billy Kline of St. Louis.

Third place in the parade division, golden horse-palomino stallion event, was won by Golden Commander, owned by Larry L. Eickel of Clayton.

URANIUM MINERS, RED POLICE CLASH; 5 KILLED, PAPER SAYS

BERLIN, Oct. 21 (AP) — The United States-sponsored newspaper Neue Zeitung said today five persons were killed in a clash between uranium miners and Soviet zone police at Johanngeorgenstadt, Saxony.

The report, unconfirmed by other sources, said the incident occurred several days ago when the miners, returning home from work in a Russian-operated uranium concession, overloaded a train.

The miners refused to obey a stationmaster's request to get off the roof of the railway cars and police opened fire, the paper said. After several miners had been wounded, the miners seized the stationmaster and four policemen and beat them to death.

YANK DANCES WITH PRINCESS, CALLS HER 'SMOOTH STEPPER'

OXFORD, England, Oct. 21 (INS)—A "Yank at Oxford" who danced with Britain's Princess Margaret had three words today to describe the pert princess—"A smooth stepper."

Christopher Wright, 24-year-old son of Prof. Quincy Wright, of the University of Chicago, said the "music was so good when we danced . . . that there was little time for small talk."

Another American who was chosen to escort the Princess when she visited Oxford — 25-year-old William Barber, a Rhodes Scholar from Abeline, Kan., said she was "delightful."

Quintuplets Look Over New York, Visit Quadruplets in the Bronx

Dionne Sisters Targets for Camera Fans at Rockefeller Center, Appear on Radio Program.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—The Dionne quintuplets, shy but smiling, faced up like veterans before the pop of photo flash guns as they got their first good look at big city sights yesterday.

The 16-year-old girls—Yvonne, Marie, Cecile, Emilie and Annette—were accompanied on the tour by 11 classmates from Villa Notre Dame High School near their home town of Callander, Ont.

With Cardinal Francis Spellman as their host, the sisters crowded in a sightseeing trip with a radio broadcast and a visit to St. Vincent's Hospital, and posed holding babies at the New York Foundling Hospital.

In addition, they appeared at New York's Cathedral High School to sing "The Sidewalks of New York."

The quints visited the 17-month-old Collins quadruplets in the Bronx today. The visit took place in "Quad Heaven," the $50,000 model home built for the quads and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collins.

A crowd including numerous camera fans greeted their appearance at Rockefeller Center. They got their first look at the center's famed ice skating rink. Their nurse, Mrs. Charles McMillan, said the "girls were fond of skating."

They viewed New York from the 75-story R.C.A. building and had lunch in the building.

The girls talk little. They are a bit embarrassed—says their father, Oliva Dionne—about their poor English. On the radio broadcast they all said, "Yes, we are having a wonderful time."

The girls were dressed alike in gray flannel suits with green chiffon scarves, feathered hats and green-high-heeled shoes.

In contrast with their formal gown appearance at a dinner Thursday night, they wore no lipstick during the day.

It was late afternoon before the girls and their party embarked on a private bus tour of Central Park.

BURMA SURGEON CALLED FRIENDLY TO UNION SOLDIERS

RANGOON, Oct. 20 (UP)—Witnesses for American missionary-doctor Gordon Seagrave testified at his treason trial yesterday that he was friendly toward Burmese union soldiers and showed no disrespect for the army.

Matron Naomi of his hospital staff told the court that Seagrave gave the Karen rebels no medical aid that he had not given to government troops.

She said Seagrave told her to give medical supplies to the Karens "because if we don't, they will take them away."

The hospital matron said that, two days before the Karens took Namkhan, the "Burma surgeon" told the hospital staff not to be afraid because if there were danger he would die at their head.

U Thein Han, a public relations officer of the regular army, testified he first met Seagrave when the doctor complained about the government troops. The doctor was angry, he said, because the troops were misbehaving but he showed no disrespect to the army itself.

TAMPA ESCAPES HURRICANE AS IT FIZZLES OUT IN BOG

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 21 (AP)—A hurricane which failed to live up to advance billing fizzled out in a Florida wilderness today. The rich Tampa bay resort area, once threatened with a possible knockout punch, escaped entirely.

The Florida highway patrol said the storm hit inland just north of Cedar Key, the fishing village devastated by the Labor day hurricane. Winds were well below the 75-mile-an-hour minimum for a hurricane. Apparently the once threatening blow was breaking up harmlessly in that sparsely inhabited section of swamps and woodland about 100 miles north of Tampa.

A LITTLE GIRL'S WOES: FIRE AND A SWALLOWED PENNY

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Oct. 21 (AP)—"My house is going to burn down and I've swallowed a penny."

Six-year-old Rosalie Maloney thus announced double trouble for her mother last night.

Mrs. Mary Maloney found a small blaze near a hay barn at the home and telephoned for firemen. They put out the flames with a few buckets of water and learned from Thomas Patrick Maloney, 8, that he had been playing with matches near the barn and had started the blaze.

Police then took Rosalie and her mother to a hospital where the child was found in no danger and sent home for later examination by the family physician.

Hedda Hopper Views The Hollywood News

By John Crosby

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.

IN her nationally syndicated column, Hedda Hopper, according to the announcer on her new show (KSD, 7:30 p.m. Saturdays), "reports on Hollywood to 30,000,000 people here and in 30 countries abroad." Her program, I guess, is designed to plug any loopholes in the republic that may now be uninformed about Hollywood. If you can't read, you can listen, can't you? There's no excuse for anyone remaining in the dark about Hollywood any longer.

HEDDA HOPPER . . . THE NEWS THAT DOESN'T HAPPEN.

What you'll learn, if Hedda's first program last Saturday is any criterion, will be largely negative. "Hello, everybody," she declares briskly. "I'm going to let you look over my shoulder while I write my column. Judy Garland, despite rumors, will not take Mary Martin's part in 'South Pacific' when Miss Martin goes abroad. The So-And-So's (I didn't catch the name) will not be reconciled. The big news about Elizabeth Taylor is not that she's having a baby. She's not. . . .' And so on. A great many events of the most earth-shaking importance are not taking place in Hollywood these days. It's a form of journalism that has been greatly neglected. Newspapers have always been accused of stressing the murders, the suicides, the bank robberies and of ignoring the vast multitudes who don't commit these things. Miss Hopper is filling a niche, telling us all the news that doesn't happen.

OF COURSE, IF YOUR THIRST for knowledge about the movie people extends even to their non-doings, Hedda's program is easily the best and most elaborate to come along. While Louella and Jimmy run out of breath after 15 minutes, Hedda—who is assisted by some awfully distinguished people—continues for half an hour. (You'll pardon me for calling all these people by their first names. I don't know any of them well enough to call them by their last names.)

In spite of the malarkey she's talking about, Hedda has a sharp and penetrating tongue and is altogether a very bright girl. Each week she plans to have as guests one screen star, one newcomer to the game, and one person prominent in some field outside of movies—if such people exist. She also plans to let the screen stars reply to their critics, including herself.

★ ★ ★

THE FIRST MAN to do this—and she couldn't have picked a better man for the part—was Humphrey Bogart who harbors strong views on a lot of things. It is Miss Hopper's contention that screen stars are not entitled to private lives of their own, that they belong to their public and they jolly well ought to abide by the morality clause in their contract.

Declared Mr. Bogart spiritedly: "People want actors, not models of propriety. The people in this country are pretty adult. Just because a man plays a monk on the screen, they don't expect him to live in a monastery. After all, this town was built on glamour, I think it's getting a little dull." It's a good thing Bogey is a producer on his own now or he'd be in terrible trouble with the front office for speaking out like that.

★ ★ ★

AFTER SPARRING WITH Bogart, Hedda whisked us out to the home of Helen Broderick and her son, Broderick Crawford. "Brod's in the kitchen fixing the sink," reported Miss Broderick, after showing Hedda into the living room. Some instinct tells me these homey, domestic touches will enter into many of the interviews with the Hollywood great. "Clark's out in the garage greasing the Cadillac." Or, "Hedy's in the nursery hemstitching the children.' Or, "Tyrone's down in the vault counting his money." Anything to put us ordinary folk at our ease.

★ ★ ★

AFTER A MOMENT of chitchat with Hedda, Miss Broderick called out: "Come in, Brod." And Brod came into the living room to the accompaniment of thunderous applause. (Probably keep an audience stationed in the living room for emergencies like this.) Anyhow, the interview ended with a reproduction, probably from the sound track, of Crawford's "I'm a hick" speech from "All the King's Men." Darned good speech, too.

All told, though, Hedda's program is several notches above the others in this curious field. And, since Hedda's powers of persuasion are as well known as her headgear, the guest list, I'm sure, will contain the very biggest names in Hollywood.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

THE Wright Brothers, Wilbur and Orville, hated making speeches almost as much as they loved experimenting with flying machines. After their triumphant flight, they were literally dragged to a dinner in their honor, and in due course the chairman demanded a speech from Wilbur. Wilbur glared around the room, swallowed a few times, and grumbled, "Big mistake here. Orville does the talking for both of us," and sat down. When Orville was called upon, he was briefer still. "My brother Wilbur," he said, "spoke for both of us."

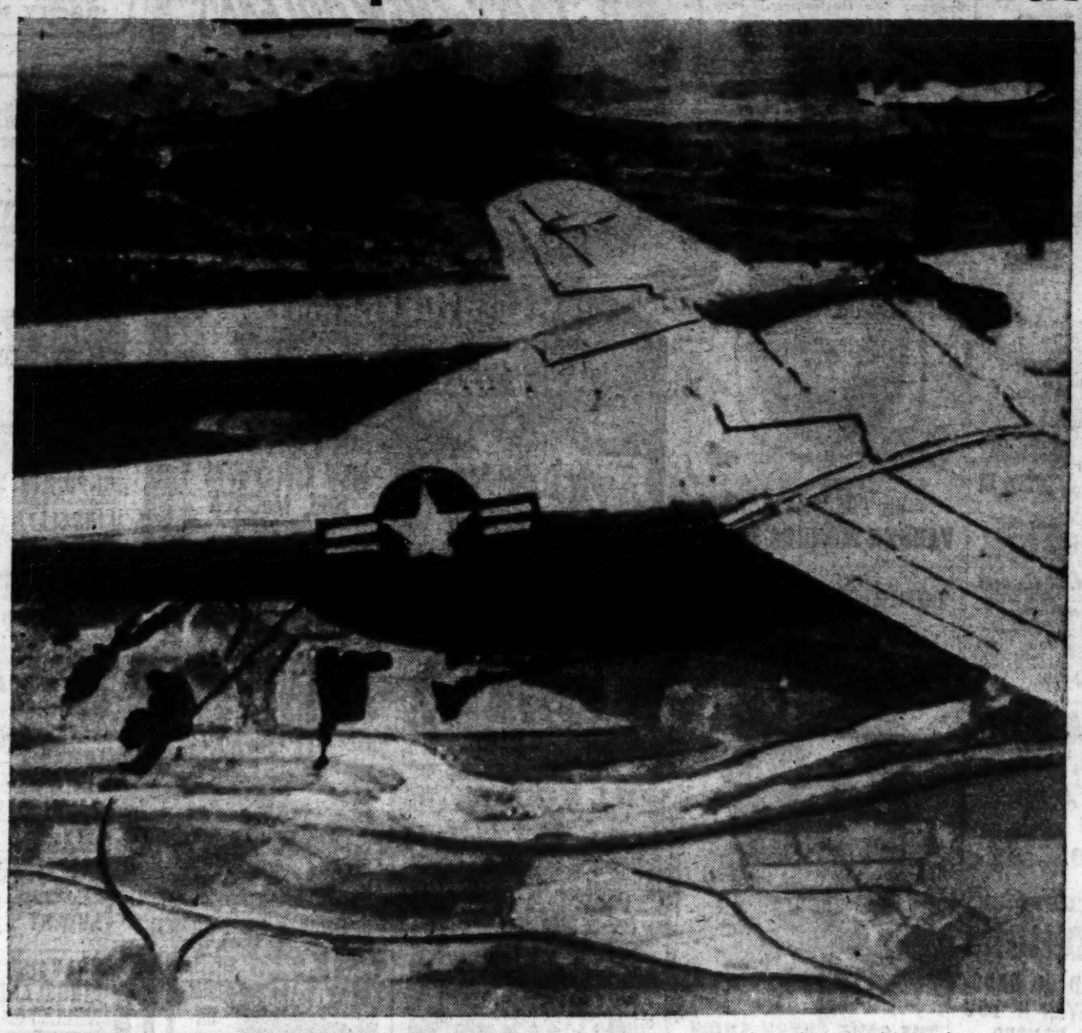
U.S. Paratroops in North Korea Attack

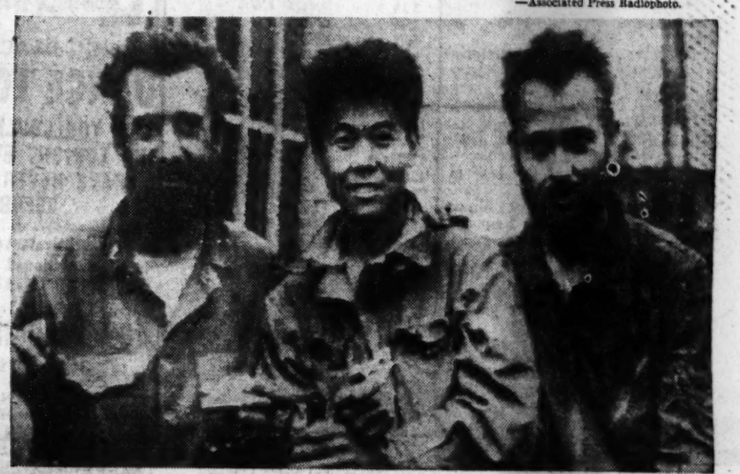


Parachutes begin to fill the sky as American paratroopers (foreground and at rear) jump from their planes in a surprise drop behind North Korean lines 80 miles from the Manchurian border yesterday. Some 4000 Yanks participated in the operation, under supervision of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who flew over the area in his personal plane. First Cavalry Division forces pushing north from Pyongyang linked up with the 'chutists, to trap a large force of the enemy by cutting off escape routes. —Associated Press Radiophoto.

These Yanks crowd a "flying boxcar" over enemy territory as they await word to jump. Fighter planes rocketed and strafed the jump areas before the "boxcars" unloaded and after landing of the paratroopers the planes returned to Seoul to pick up additional supplies to be air-dropped to the troops. —Associated Press Radiophoto.

Gen. MacArthur steps jauntily from his plane at Pyongyang for a quick inspection of the capital. He is followed by Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, commander of the Far East Air Force, who conferred the Distinguished Flying Cross on him. —International News Photo.

The city was being cleared of snipers today and Allied forces reported prisoners were being taken in large numbers in outlying areas. —Associated Press Radiophoto.



These American survivors of a ghastly death march from Seoul to Pyongyang are shown after their liberation from the Reds in the North Korean capital. From left: Lt. Alexander Makaroumis, Lowell, Mass.; Sgt. Takeshi Kumdai, Honolulu, and Capt. William Locke, Enfield, Ga. They were in a group of 283 prisoners of war moved northward by the retreating Communists and reported that many of their comrades were beaten and murdered on the long trek. —Associated Press Radiophoto.

CHARLES H. COMPTON HONORED

Raymond H. Wittcoff, president of the Adult Education Council, reading a testimonial to Charles H. Compton (center), retiring librarian of the St. Louis Public Library, at a dinner given for him by the council at Hotel Sheraton last night. Jacob M. Stimson Career Highlights

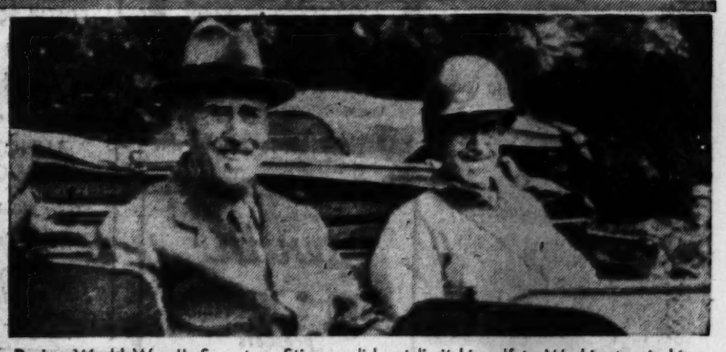
Henry L. Stimson, elder statesman who died of a heart attack at his Cold Spring Harbor (N. Y.) home yesterday, is shown (at left) during his service as Secretary of State in the Hoover administration. He previously had been Secretary of War under President William Howard Taft and returned to that post in 1940 at the invitation of President Roosevelt, who watches (above) as Stimson is sworn in by Percy Nelson, administrative assistant. Stimson, a Republican, was the first American to serve in the cabinets of four Presidents. —Associated Press Photo.



During World War II, Secretary Stimson did not limit himself to Washington in his direction of the nation's vast Army and Air Force. Here he tours the Normandy beachhead after the Allied invasion of 1944, accompanied by Gen. Omar Bradley, commanding American ground forces. Stimson served as a colonel of the field artillery in France in World War I. He was 83 years old. —Associated Press Wirephoto.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM the mother of six children, three boys, 16, 14 and 13, and three girls, 12, 10 and 7. I have the best husband in the world but he is 47 years old and the only job he can get pays him $39.40 a week. We have no heating stoves and no coal and I don't see any way that we can buy any. We owe so many bills we hardly have enough to eat let alone buy coal or clothing. My husband lost a good job because of the bills we owe and we lost everything we had. I can make beautiful baby sweater sets, crocheted scarfs, etc., and so many friends tell me I could open a baby shop but I'm sorry to say I can't even buy wool to make them. We have been to all charitable organizations but as long as my husband is employed, they can't help. If you could help me in any way I would appreciate it. To show you how our money goes, I paid $20 rent Saturday and about $7 on bills which leaves $12 or a little better for groceries for eight of us for a week.

MRS. J. G.

You certainly are in need of financial straightening out, but I am sure you understand that we are not allowed to make any contacts of this kind through the column or to refer you directly to anyone for help. However, I believe I can make some general, practical suggestions for you. First of all, your boys, certainly the oldest one, should be able to get some sort of jobs on Saturdays or after school hours and contribute something to the family budget. Ordinarily, this may not be advisable for children still in school but yours is an extreme case and it is preferable for the entire family to pitch in and work rather than to ask for charity. If you feel you could help your family best by taking a full time job, you might appeal to one of the charitable agencies you have contacted about finding you a housekeeper who could take over your home duties while you contribute something to the income. Your talent for knitting and crocheting should net you something but as you say, that sort of thing takes a little capital. If you have any samples of your work, you might make the rounds of baby shops (listed under Infants' Wear, Retail, in the yellow pages of the telephone book), and show them your work and take orders. After you had made one sale you could buy yarn for more work, and so on.

If your older children are able to help out, whether by running errands, doing baby sitting, or any of the other teenage money-making jobs, it would at least help with the grocery bills. Once your bills are paid, your husband might have a better chance of getting a more responsible job. You do not tell me how you accumulated sufficient bills to cause him to lose his job, but I gather that some type of budgeting might help you out. Try to work out a plan of just what your bills are going to be and then live within that plan even though it means pinching pennies for a time, until you have gotten out of this vicious circle of having to pay out present income on past expenses. I'm sure with all of you working together, you should be able to come out of your temporarily unhappy situation.

Husband's Complaints

By Dr. Paul Popence

WHAT do men complain about in marriage? Pretty much the same things the world over—at least, in the civilized world.

Mrs. N. raises the question. "Some time ago," she recalls, "I read an interesting list of complaints of Italian wives by Dr. Origlia, an Italian psychologist who was head of a marriage counseling bureau. Did he tell what the grievances of husbands are?"

★ ★ ★

YES, DR. ORIGLIA, who is practicing in Turin, the great industrial city of northern Italy, also listed the troubles of husbands, which he said ranked in seriousness as follows:

1. Failure of the wife to give "emotional support." Instead of seeing the best in him, encouraging him, carrying him through business difficulties by her cheerfulness and belief in him, she complains, whines, nags, and belittles him.

2. Inferiority complex. Dr. Origlia thinks that modern man has an inferiority complex anyway, but his wife's tendency to beat him down, to point out how much better she would have done had she married John Doe instead, makes it worse.

3. Financial difficulties. The Italians certainly have no monopolies on these!

4. Unfaithfulness of the wife. Dr. Origlia thinks that a husband resents his wife's infidelity more bitterly and violently than a wife resents that of her husband, and he paints a vivid picture of the way many husbands continually suspect their wives and are continually watching them.

★ ★ ★

5. RELATION WITH PARENTS. The mother-in-law difficulty is not a new one. Dr. Origlia cites a book on cannibalism, published last year, which describes the purported custom of a tribe in the African Congo. A wedding there was followed by a banquet at which the principal dish was the bride's own mother, roasted and served to the guests! If any tribe ever adopted that method of solving the mother-in-law problem (and I for one would be very suspicious of the truth of such stories!) it still would leave the husband's mother who, in some American studies, is found to be a problem more frequently than is the wife's mother.

6. Sexual inadequacy.

7. Excessive concern of the wife with her children, to the neglect of her husband.

8. Failure of the wife to take an appropriate part in community affairs.

It's an interesting picture, Mrs. N. Talk it over with your friends and relatives; see how far you think the same list of complaints would be found in your own home town.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A MOTHER WRITES: "I have seven children. The ages of the oldest three are 14, 15 and 17. We've just received a wedding invitation from my niece—my sister's daughter—with two pew cards for the church and also for the reception at home. There is a note on it explaining this is just for us and none of the children can be invited. My husband is refusing to go at all and thinks it is as heartless as it is rude to exclude our three oldest children, who have been eagerly counting on going to their first wedding!"

Answer: I agree with your husband that they should have been invited at least to the church. However, it is often not possible to invite everyone to a reception—especially a sit-down meal.

DEAR MRS. POST: Would it be permissible today for a young woman in the early twenties to drive home from a distant city with a young man she has grown up with but who never was a beau? They were always just good friends through school, and now he is working in the same city in which she teaches. The trip would necessitate three days on the way, which means they would have to stop over those nights in hotels.

Answer: I find a mitigating circumstance in the very fact that he is a life-long friend who was never a beau. Under these conditions, if in your own conscience it is proper, I think there should be no criticism.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

WEST made a grave miscalculation in the bidding of the following deal.

South dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠QJ763 ♥A54 ♦K65 ♣J7
♠K9 ♥7 ♦Q108 ♣AQ10965 3	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠52 ♥Q10863 ♦J97 ♣K42
	♠A1084 ♥KJ92 ♦A432 ♣8

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	2♣	2♠	Pass
Pass	3♣	3♠	Pass
4♠	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

West's double was obviously based more on pique than on defensive values! He said later: "Gee, they stopped at two spades, so it certainly didn't look as though they could make four!" Actually, South made five! (West opened his singleton heart.)

It is often logical for a player to reopen the bidding after the opponents have stopped at a low level, but when the auction proceeds exactly as in this deal, the player (West, here) should exercise more than ordinary caution. The "catch" is in the ambiguity of North's raise. Discussing the deal, North said that he would have jumped to three spades if West had not intervened over South's opening bid, but that he, North, had felt that his hand was not quite worth the double jump as a free raise.

This was extremely questionable reasoning on North's part, but the point is that many players use the same philosophy, and so it behooves the opponents to guide themselves accordingly. The fact that the free single raise might have been a double raise in the absence of an opposing bid, should dampen the opponents' spirits when they must decide whether or not to reopen the bidding. In this case, West knew he could not hope to make five clubs in view of partner's silence; hence at rubber bridge, he would have been well advised to bow out of the auction.

A turkey may be roasted without dressing; but if you do stuff it don't pack dressing in too tightly. The fluffiest dressings are those that are packed in with a light hand.

Oysters 'R Months' Treat

By Edith M. Barber

"OYSTERS R in Season" is the sign often seen from September on through April. It happens that all of the colder months use an R in their spelling! That is when oysters are at their best. In some states, they cannot be sold unless the months do their part.

On a cold day, nothing tastes better than oyster stew. When I was growing up in western Pennsylvania, an oyster stew was always provided after a sleigh ride. It did not seem mysterious to me then that oysters could be purchased so far from their source. I was not too particular about quality then. Today, we don't have to worry about this, as new methods of shucking, packing under sanitary conditions and shipping make it possible to have shelled oysters of good quality in almost every part of the country. This is the result of increased demand for this shellfish whose flavor almost every one likes.

In addition, oysters in the shell are shipped to many inland cities so that they are available to restaurants and may often be purchased at the fish market for special occasions. The dealer will open them for you, if you like, as there is a real trick in forcing open the oyster shell, and a special knife is needed. A new method now used to some extent is to place the oysters in an oven for a few moments until the shell is open and then to immediately place in ice water for a moment. Results are quite satisfactory.

In making oyster stew, be sure that the oysters are not overcooked and just until the edges curl with the heat. This is also a test for the oysters used in curried creamed oysters—the recipe for which is presented today.

Curried Creamed Oysters.

Six tablespoons butter or margarine, six tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half to one teaspoon curry powder, two cups milk, 36 (1½ pints) oysters, one pimiento, minced, one-fourth cup minced parsley.

Melt butter or margarine, stir in flour, salt and curry powder, and when well blended, add milk slowly, stirring constantly over low heat until mixture thickens and boils. Add drained oysters, minced pimiento and parsley. Cook gently about 3 minutes until the edges of the oysters curl. Serve at once on hot toast, in croustades, or in patty shells. Yield: Six servings.

My Day -o- By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK.

THE other night after Gov. Dewey had made the speech in which he tried to tie up the present situation between himself and Lt. Gov. Hanley with John J. Raskob and my husband, my secretary was called by two news services and naturally replied that if they would read what was written in Chapter 4 of my last book they would know exactly what happened.

Gov. Dewey based his statement, he said, on Jim Farley's book, in the writing of which Mr. Farley was aided by Walter Trohan of the Chicago Tribune, and on Edward J. Flynn's book. I have not their books at hand to verify what they said, but it sounds to me more as though any attempt to tie the two situations together was probably based on some of the misleading columnists' stories which have not been too factual.

MY STATEMENT in my book is completely factual and documented by a financial report sent me by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. One fundamental difference seems to me to exist. My husband, before he ran for Governor and at no time in his life, was indebted to no one. He invested large sums of his own principal in Warm Springs, Ga., and therefore felt an obligation not only to stay there to improve his health but to stay there and watch over his own investment.

I was asked at the Democratic state convention by Mr. Raskob and Gov. Smith if it would make any difference in his attitude toward accepting the nomination if he knew that his investment could be replaced by contributions from other sources. As you know, both men are dead, but I think they must have told others at the time that both my husband and I said that while he welcomed contributions to the development of Warm Springs Foundation, those contributions would have absolutely no effect on his running or not running for Governor.

Mr. Raskob later made contributions to Warm Springs but they did not reduce my husband's investment. That was repaid to his estate by a life insurance policy which had been taken out by the Warm Springs Foundation many years before his death. There is absolutely no similarity between the two cases and I am astonished that even a harried politician would try to hide behind such a very poor excuse.

THE MIX-UP on our new international security law is becoming funnier every day. One might sit back and really laugh at it if it were not in a way tragic, because we are becoming the laughingstock of the world. In addition, the fact that visas are being held up for everyone who wishes to enter the United States at the present time does bring about some very tragic results.

I have had pathetic letters and I don't know whether I will be able to help in the situations described in them. This poorly written law, both out of fear and enacted over the President's veto, seems to be tying us up in double knots.

The decision on Spain must have considerably upset Senator Pat McCarran, author of the law and friend of Spain. Members of General Franco's Flange party are barred from entry into the United States because the party is a totalitarian one.

I imagine there will be a revision of the law when Congress reconvenes after election day—and the sooner it is revised the more respect we will command in the world.
